In Memory of Mary Lee Tatum

Dedicated by the 1992 Yearbook Staff

Mary Lee Tatum
(1935-1991)

"Most importantly, don't ever forget what it's like to be a child."

--Mary Lee Tatum

Mrs. Tatum was a beloved teacher, colleague, and friend. When we had a problem, Mary Lee was always there with open arms. She was a comfort and a special friend to us all. Mrs. Tatum had a spirit that touched everyone. In her eyes no one could do wrong. "I only met her once, but I felt like I knew her through other people," said Liv Nordin. Mrs. Tatum treated everyone as individuals and gave us all unconditional love. She influenced our lives from the beginning, and no one will ever forget her. Dr. George Thoms said, "Most of us don't leave a whole lot to the world. We make ripples, but Mary Lee made an enormous, lasting impact on many people." Mrs. Tatum cared for everyone and everything. To everyone who knew her, Mary Lee Tatum might be gone, but for all of us here at Mason, her memory will live on forever...

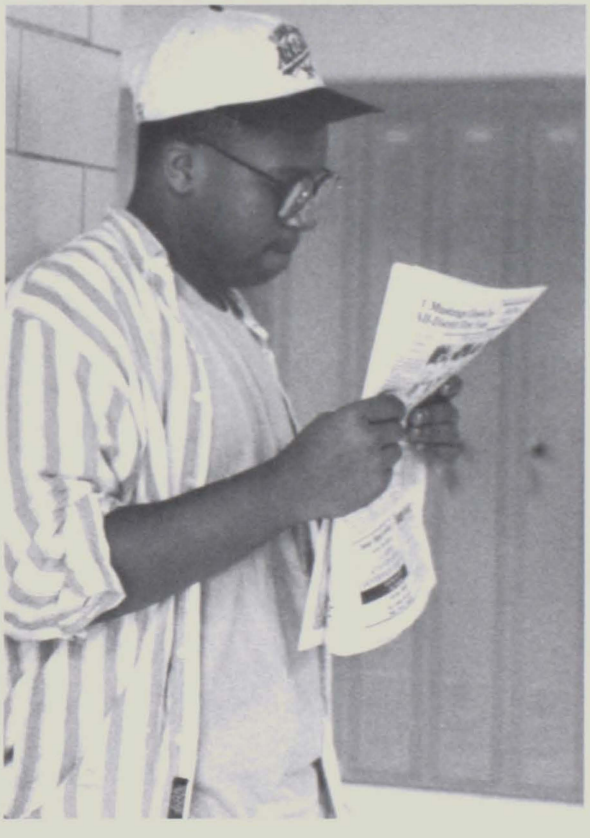
SPIRIT

GM Takes All

The George Mason Varsity Cheerleaders walked away from the Bull Run District Cheerleading Competition with the first place trophy and the Most Spirited Squad Award. After many long and strenuous pratices the squad was able to come back after 2 years and win. The team had to make many changes in the last few weeks of pratice but in the end it all paid off. Although the team is losing three seniors and two coaches they are sure they can come back next year and win again.

Junior Susie Hill is supported in her extension press by cheerleaders Janna Lukomski, Tamara Droujinsky, and Mandy Riedel.

Cindy Hunt in her debut performance as Arnold's little sister!



Fred, contrary to popular belief, you cannot hide behind a test tube.

...And then Snoopy got in his dog house!

Student Life

Paul Bailey prepares to play for students at the SCA retreat.

Dave Garrison and Stacy DeWalt find time to talk to each other in between classes.

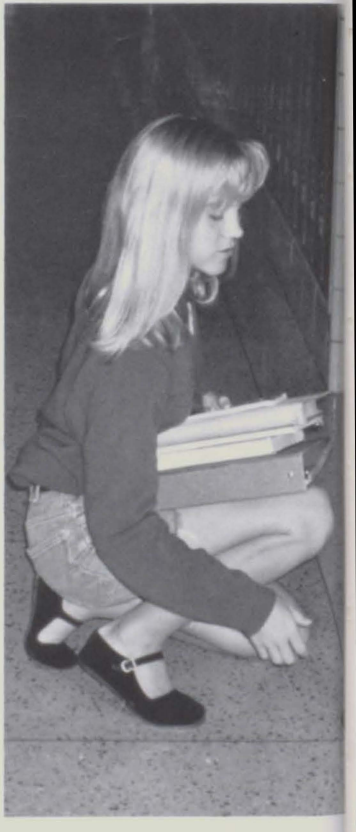
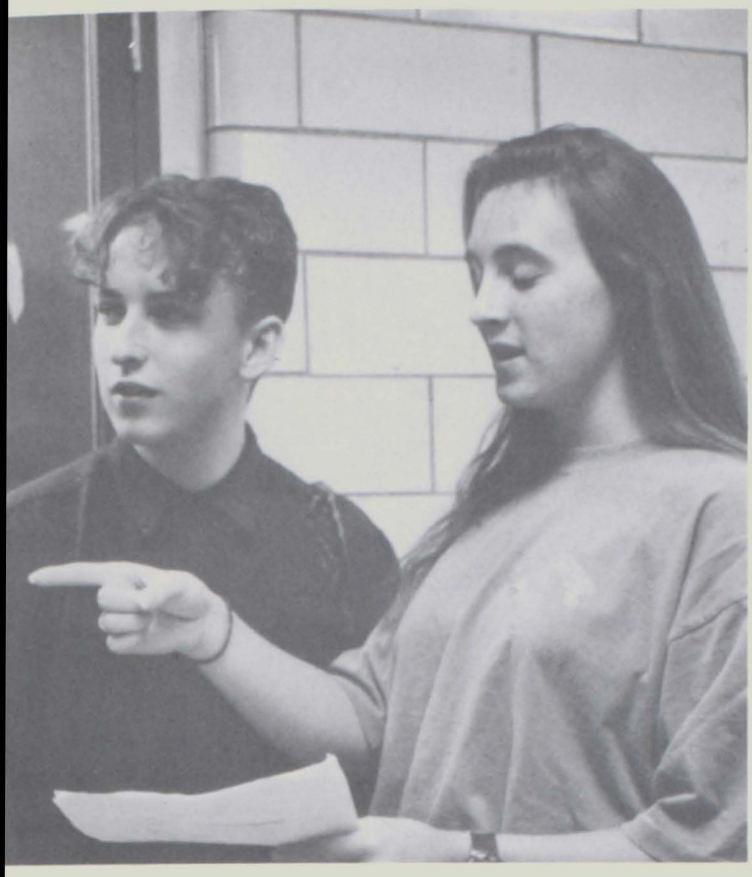
Margaret Muller shows off her school spirit by making Mustang posters.

Junior Lance Guckenberger relaxes by listening to music in the Senior Lounge.

Freshman Ashley Lancaster collects her newly covered books to take to her next class.



Sophomores join their fellow class-mates at the traditional opening da assembly.



WE'RE BACK!

A New Year Begins

TAKE IT FROM THE TOP

Junior Janna Lukomski helps new student Doug Green find his way around school.

New friends, old friends, new images, and old ones started off the school year. The first week began with the meeting of teachers and exploring new territories of academic learning.

During free time, stories of the summer were shared between friends. As usual, assemblies were scheduled for the school. It was a time when friends and strangers could come together and share memories of the past, as well as ideas for the future.

COUPLES

Age Isn't A Factor!

"There has to be at least one couple from the same grade..." was all Blair Cameron could say when asked about the dating scene. It wasn't difficult to notice that most of the couples at GM were from different grades. But as Josh Jarrett said "What does age matter anyway?"

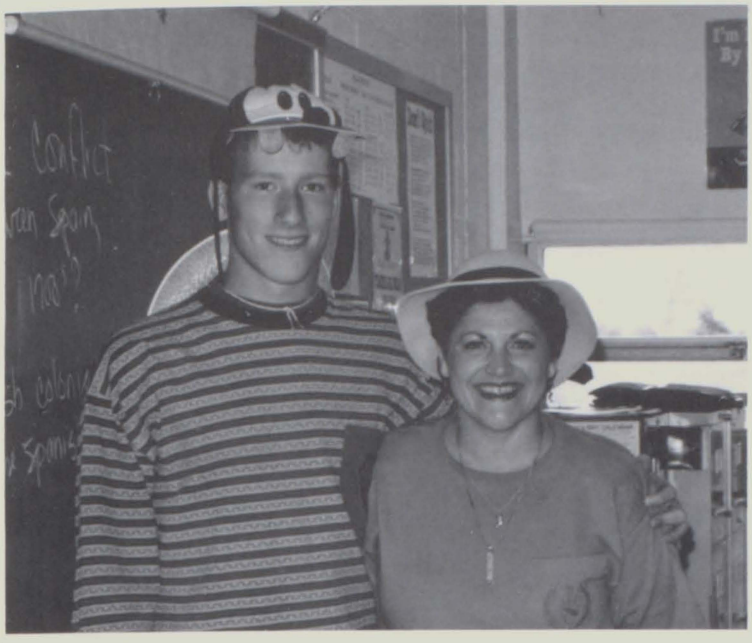
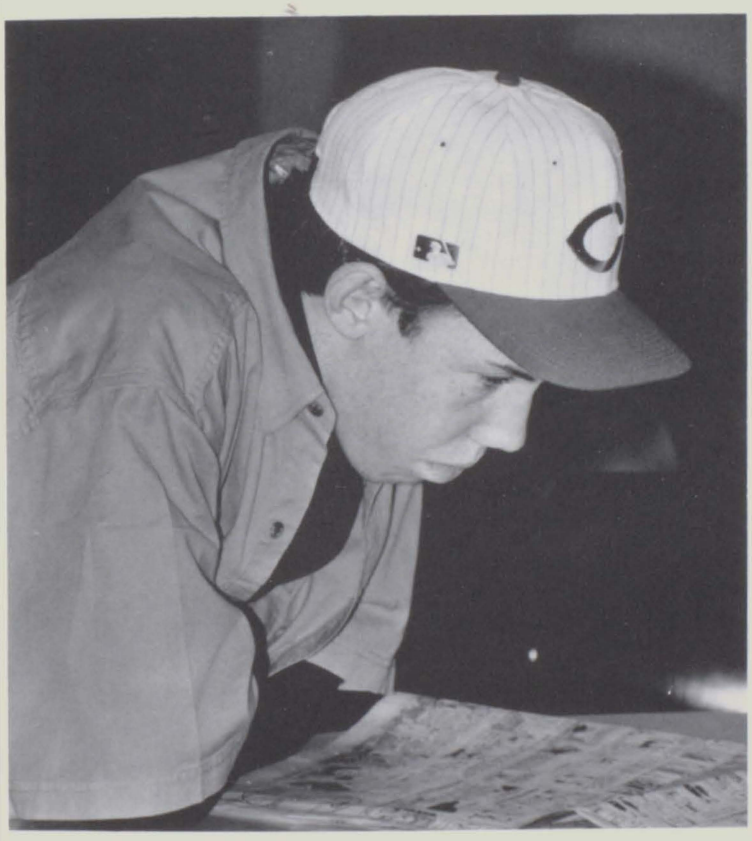
Aaron Smith and Jennifer Hoffman share a hug in the halls between classes.

Senior Bill Singletary and History teacher Gail Nolan get into the spirit of Hat Day. This was fitting for the new hat trend at school this year.



Here is the "hat on backwards look" presented by Adam Jarrett while listening attentively during the Student Council Retreat to learn how to increase interest in the Student Council.



Dwayne Donley wearing a "thinking cap" to better understand the funnies in the library during his open.

Continuing the hat trend, Junior Chris Blocker kneels in a pile of books while searching for his homework.

BE DIFFERENT

Students Break The Norm

Sometimes words cannot express the way we feel or explain the way we act. Occasionally the everyday stress of school causes us to act and behave a little strange. Even so we somehow always manage to work it out.

Seniors John Blackwell and Dave Garrison share a bonding moment in the art room.

Freshman Tosh Akiyama chuckles during Biology.

Goofin' around Senior Dave Kelly puts his books away after a busy school day.

A WEEK OF SPIRIT

A Life Of Memories

The week of Homecoming, traditionally known as Spirit Week, was like no other week ever held at George Mason. It was a refreshing start not only for the Homecoming events, but for the entire school year.

Spirit week kicked off as students came to school dressed according to the day's attire. The Sophomores defeated the Freshmen in the Freshman/Sophomore Soccer Game, which was a huge success with nearly 50% of each grade participating. The Juniors outplayed their Senior opponents in the Junior/Senior Girls Powder-Puff Football Game.

Each day was full of activities. Especially Friday which was Jerseys or Red and White day. Carnations of the same colors were delivered during TA. The night's Pep Rally decided the victor of the Spirit Week contest. The Sophomores, who displayed remarkable spirit, creating a tie between the Sophomores and Juniors, were forced to relinquish their chance for first place to the worthy Juniors.

In addition to the Pep Rally, the Bonfire took place Friday night in the form of a mock funeral procession for the Central Falcons, the opponents for the next day's game. Although this may have concluded "Spirit Week," it was by no means an end to the spirit which so energetically began the school year.

> "The pep rally was definitley the best part of Spirit Week because many students who usually aren't involved participated, and of course because the Juniors won Spirit Week."
> -Junior Anu Gupta

> "It had a lot of soul."
> -Junior Shawn Askin

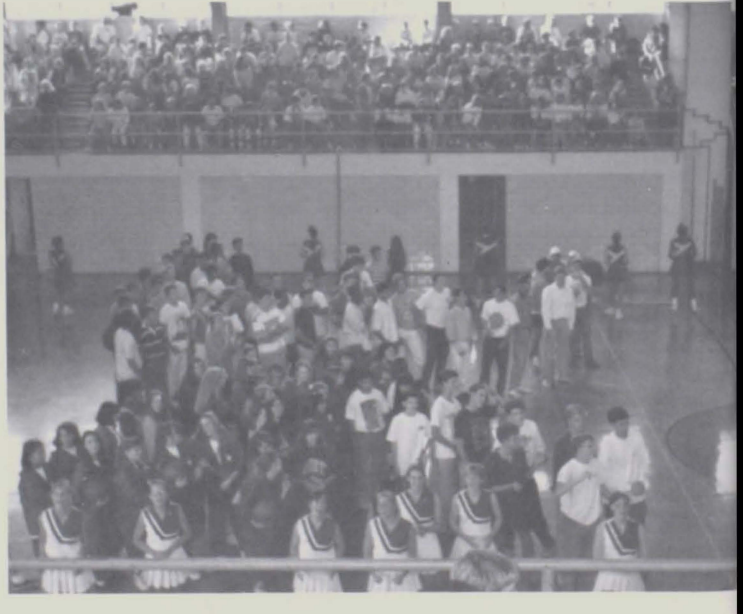
A spirited pep rally inspires the enthusiasm which was displayed in such games as the Homecoming football game.



Varsity cheerleaders, Katie Gray, Mandy Riedel, and Janna Lukomski liven up an everyday scene for George Mason students.

As the Powder Puff football game comes to a disappointing conclusion for the Senior girls, Suzanne Eggleton laughs it off with ease.

As the fire blazed at the bonfire a week of school spirit concluded.

A MUSTANG VICTORY

The homecoming game was a glorious victory. The Mustangs defeated the Central Falcons 14-7. Touchdowns were made by Junior Wide-Reciever Jon Persson and Senior Running-Back Chuck Coyer. The cheerleaders showed incredible spirit and kept the crowd enthused as well. Junior Sherri Renfrow added, "I was on the edge of my seat."

During the last two minutes of the game, the Mustang's defensive line held on tight preventing the Falcons from scoring. The stands were packed with students, alumni, parents, teachers, and friends who were over-whelmed with excitement. At half-time the Homecoming Court was introduced, and Senior representatives Andrew Swift and Stacey Russ were crowned "King and Queen."

The game brought out some of the best football playing George Mason has seen yet. The players were driven with ambition along with the never-ending screams and cheers from the stands. Overall, Homecoming week was exciting, but the victory game was a definite high point.

Senior Daniel Salsbury reacts after a wet sponge is thrown in his face during Homecoming Fair. The sponge toss was sponsored by the Senior Class in order to r money for their class trip.

"The Homecoming Fair was a new and fun way to raise money for our classes."
-Diana Dinerman

"You didn't have to be a football fan to enjoy the game."
-Trevor Krainik

Senior quarterback Eric Fellman hands off the football to Senior running back Ch Coyer.

The Homecoming Court poses for a group picture after the newly crowned King and Queen are presented to the crowd.

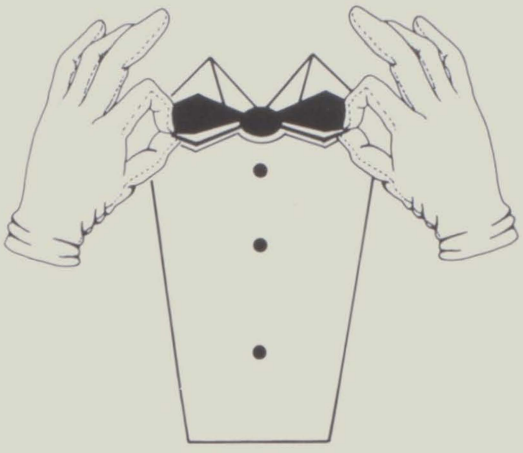
Homecoming King and Queen, Andrew Swift and Stacy Russ, take the traditional walk into the Homecoming Dance.

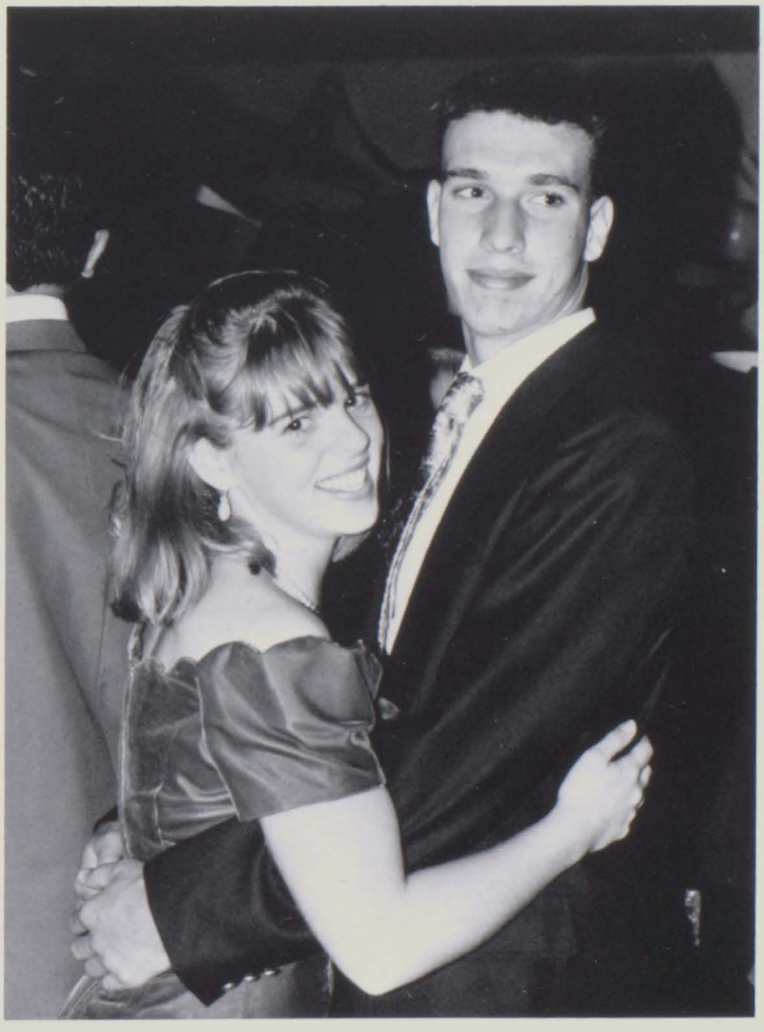
A NIGHT TO CELEBRATE

A Victorious Homecoming



The Homecoming Dance was spectacular this year. It was decorated beautifully and the music was great. The dance meant different things to different people. The freshman were excited because it was their first formal, and the sophomores were almost as excited. While to the juniors it was the first time that they could show that they were upper classmen, and for the seniors it was a time to remember the past three years. But somehow it did not matter what grade one was in because everyone had fun.

Senior Homecoming Representatives Stephanie Jones and John Yates walk through the cafeteria to join the rest of the Homecoming Court.



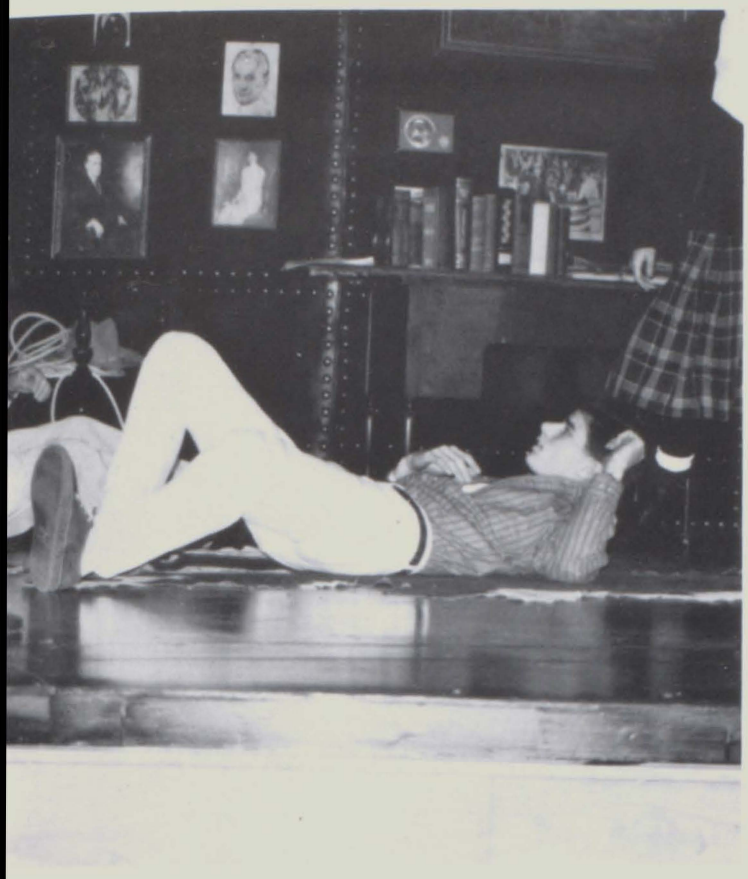
Cute couple Eric Fellman and Lindsay Smith dance the night away.

John Yates, Emily Hall, and Care-Maree Brown spend quality time together while listening to Brian Sullivan play the guitar.

Seniors Jorge Hernandez and Rosa Portillo meet with Mr. Snee to discuss the years agenda during to SCA retreat.

Teamwork was the key in making this group win the pumpkin carving contest at the SCA retreat.

Michelle Yoder voices her opinion on leadership during a team meeting.



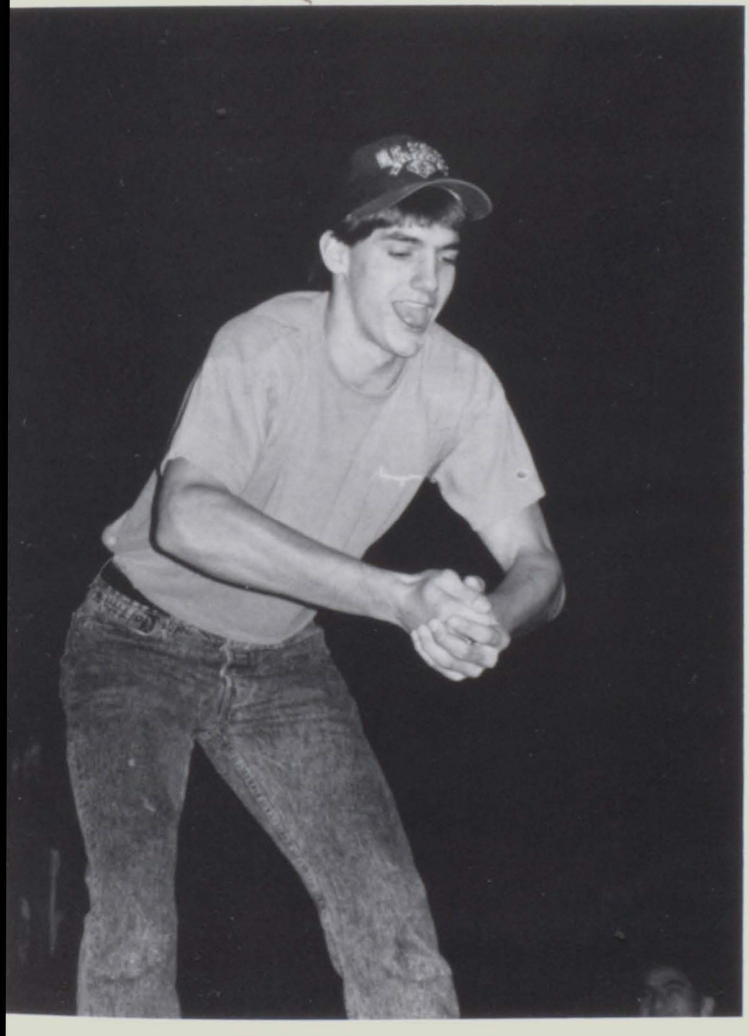
GETTING OUT

Field Trips Teach

"It's a different kind of learning experience that always turns out to be fun" said Joe Wilson about field trips. Throughout the year teachers provided alternative methods of learning for their students, during field trips. Students seemed to respond well to the new educational challenges.

Josh Jarrett fakes a fall in a skit on a Junior English and History field trip to Ford's Theatre.

Lasso and Tempo representatives Anu Gupta, Josh Davis and Mario Salguero relax between workshops at the VHSL field trip in Richmond.



Junior Lance Guckenberger learns how to "mock stab" himself on a field trip to Ford's Theatre.

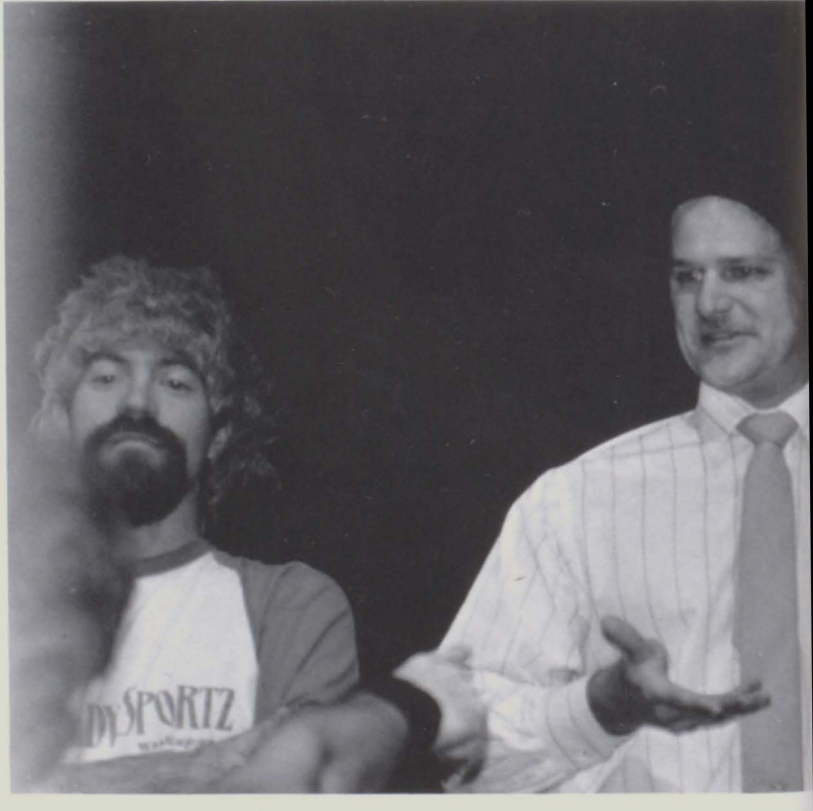
HOLIDAYS

Get in the Spirit

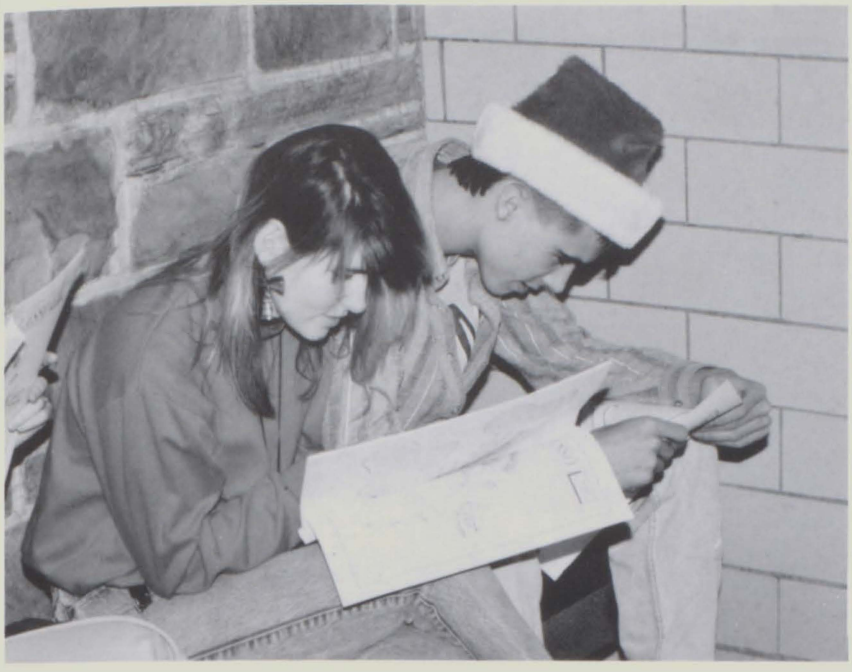
The Holiday season, for many students, was a hectic one. Teachers became more demanding and students became less willing to work. To relieve the building stress a "Comedy Sportz" team came to give us a break from the norm. Senior Stockings were also sold just before the break, and were yet another way of getting students into the holiday mood. While much of the week was spent on fun things, teachers also felt a need to reemphasize safety. This was done through a powerful anti-drunk driving assembly for Juniors & Seniors.

Student volunteers Chuck Coyer, and Grace Chae dance their way to laughs and smiles.

Freshman David Ventura tries to think of the next line for a Comedy Sportz storytelling.



Coach Lou Sorrentino and a Comedy Sportz member proudly wear wigs to emph size their good looks.



Senior Stacy Russ and Junior Josh McCall intently read the traditional Senior Stockings.

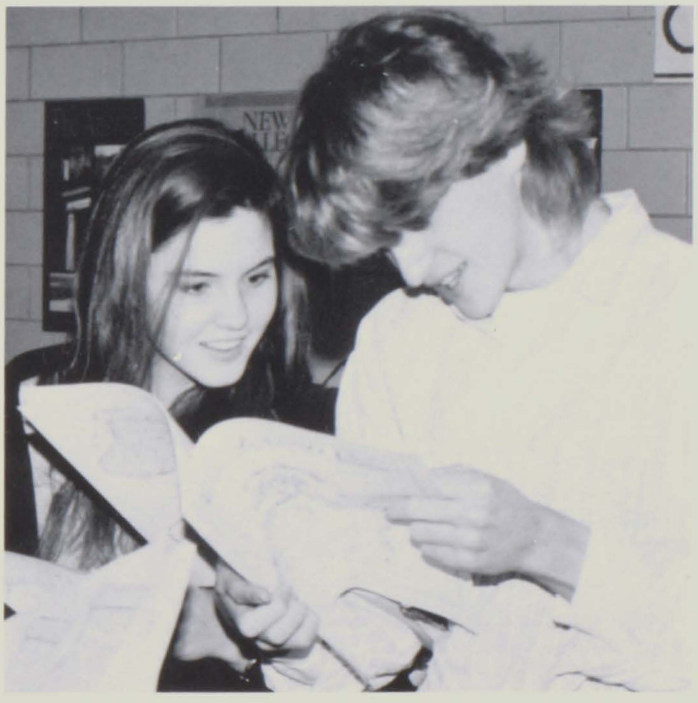
Stephanie Jones and Josh Kingsley search thoroughly through the Stockings.



Buddy Spier and Maggie Donnegan share a moment looking for their own stockings.

Marte Gronlie bites a candy cane as she carefully reads each of the Stockings.

FRIEND-SHIP

Memories Forever

Friendship is one of the most important aspects of student life at George Mason. Friends make school more enjoyable and give us a reason to smile during a rough day. "Sometimes my friends are the only reason I come to school," said Sophomore Amie Camden. When we're down or having a bad day, there's always a friend around to listen and cheer us up. We're lucky here at George Mason because most of us have grown up together and we've been friends forever. Sophomore Chris Dietz said, "Friendship helps us get through life." Years from now we can look back and always remember the times we've shared with our friends.

Friends Danya Geller and Margaret Bryant catch up on the latest weekend news.

Junior pals Paula Salguero and Molly Ruland take a bite out of lunch.

Sometimes being a friend means sharing the load. (Trevor Krainik, Scott MacEvoy)

Amie Camden and Karla Goyonaga discuss the chapter's study guide in Accounting I.

Sophomores Susan Phillips and Mercedes Heil quiz each other before a test in Mrs. Anderson's French class.

Efrain Benitez, Jose Narvaez, Denar Antelo, Fernando Jordan, Jorge Umana and Bernaldo Hernandez hang out at "The Bench" between classes.

TRANSPORTATION

Coming and Going!

Every day we had to have some way of getting to and from school, even if we didn't want to. If we were old enough, and if we had our license and a car, we drove to school. If we didn't have a car, but our friends did, we got a lift from them. Junior Mandy Riedel said that "one of the priveleges of being an upperclassman is having the freedom to drive."

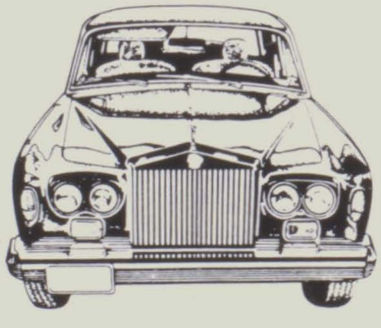
It was in the student parking lot that you could always find a wide variety of cars. From brand new cars to older models, the student body had a flair for unique types of cars. Junior Margaret Bryant who drove a pale yellow 1968 Baracuda said, "I love my car, it's well..original."

But if you were not able to drive, there were always alternative ways of getting around. Some of us used our trusty little feet, although sometimes our feet wouldn't move fast enough to get us to school on time. Others took the bus to assure they would not be late. At least there was one person who didn't want to drive to school. Tamara Droujinsky, a junior felt that, "Walking definitely beats driving, but on a scale of one to ten, I'd rather ride a bike!"

What cuties! Stacy Russ & Josh McCall rest on the bumper of Stacy's pri and joy.

Dan Salsbury models the biggest car in the student parking lot.

Sometimes our cars just wouldn't work! Helping out, Seniors Andrew Swift & Pat Thomas jump start the car of a very patient Marte Gronlie.



Ned Stitt and Noah Heller leave for home in Ned's Trooper.

Juniors John Stangel, Kristen Jackson, and Scott MacEvoy walk home along the bike trail.

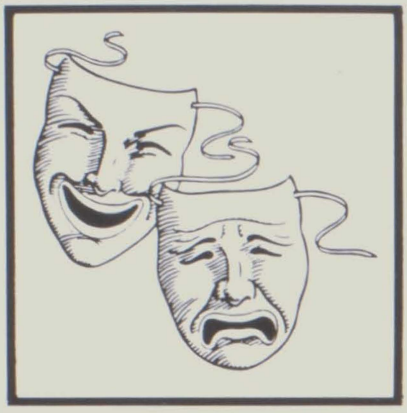
After a long day, students head for the student parking lot.

Two of a kind, Eric Ignacio duels his Trooper with Ned's.

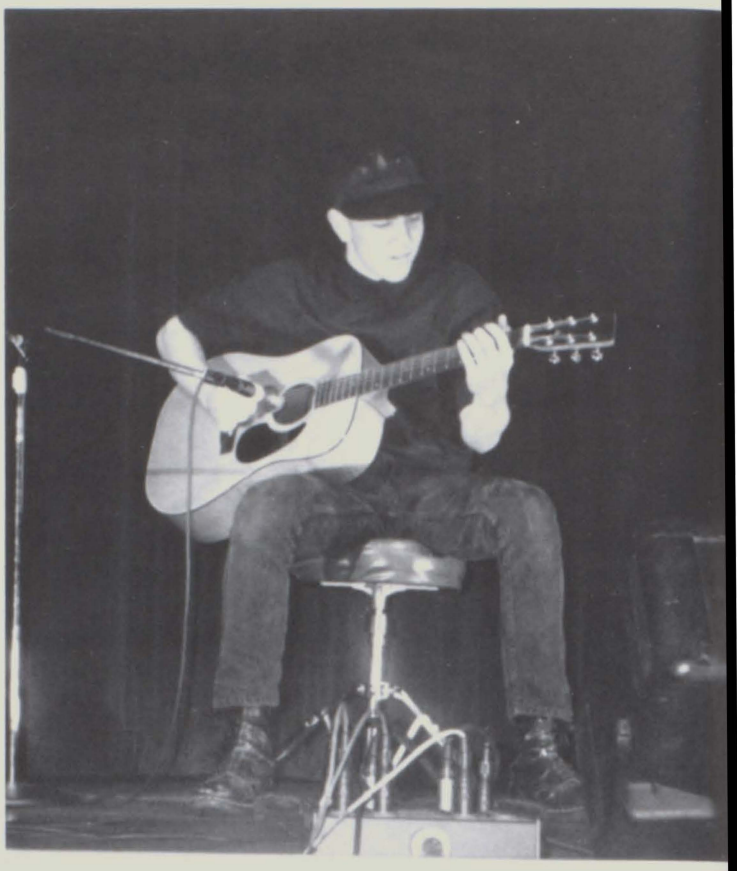
A group of students climb aboard the late bus following afternoon activities.

WHAT A SUCCESS

The 1991 J.V. Show



Once again the J.V. Show was a big hit. With only a few weeks of rehersal the cast and crew members managed to pull off a great show. With a wide variety of acts ranging from bands to skits, the show appealed to young and old alike.



Senior Jesse Boyd skillfully plays his guitar during his last J.V. Show performance.

Sophomore Meg Wiant "patiently" waits to rehearse her part in an act put on by the Media Arts class.

During his first Junior Variety Show performance, Peter Oh plays a classical piece for the audience.

Talented clarinetist Dave Douglas performs a solo during the Jazz Band's act.

Sophomores Diana Dinerman and Liv Nordin smile in relief after finishing their last act.

Freshman Ashley Lancaster dances her way into the hearts of both students and teachers during the Junior Variety Show.

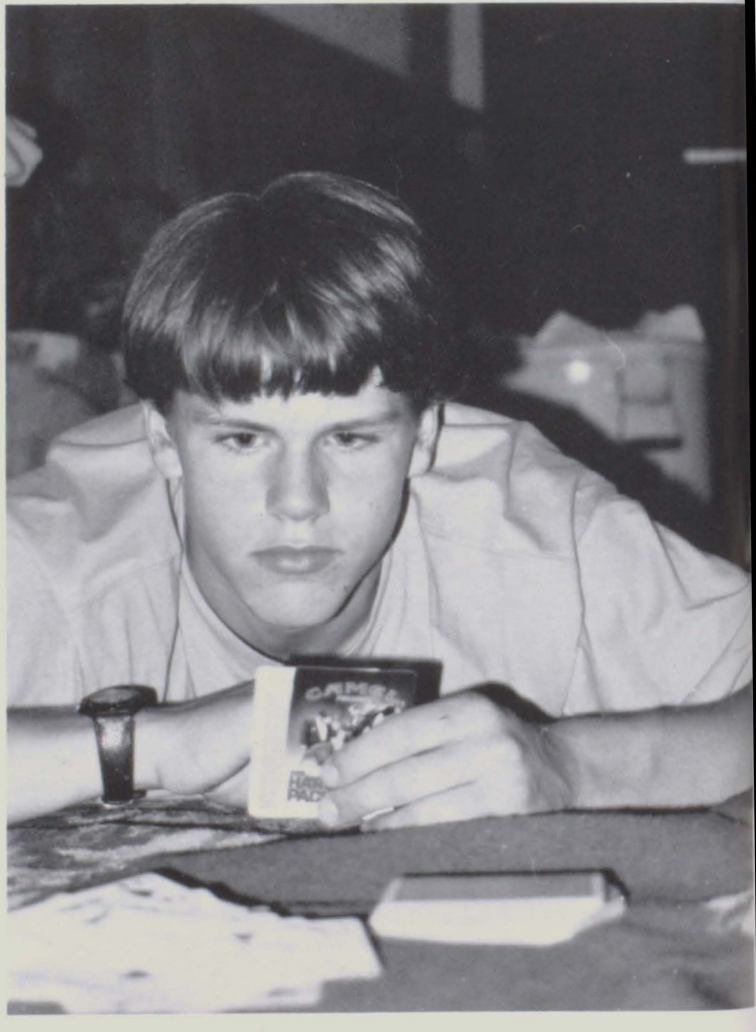
A Time For Stress To Disappear

It was those few precious minutes in between classes, during lunch, and during our free periods that we were able to relax.

Sometimes we used this time to finish our homework, but usually we just talked and laughed with our friends. It's hard to imagine how we could have gotten through the day without these moments.

Seniors Suzanne Eggleton and Adriana Anderson do some last minute studying in the Senior Lounge.

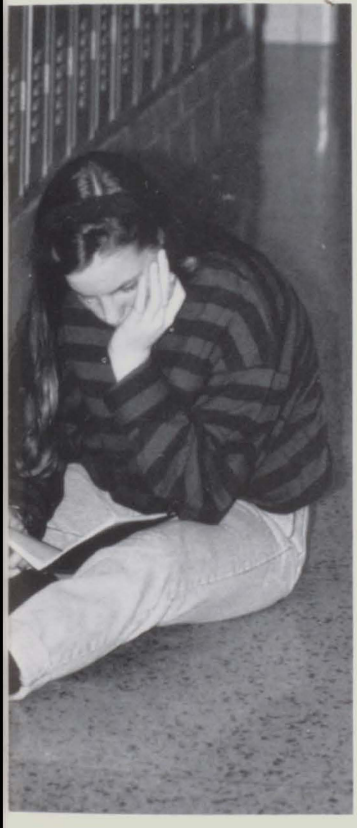
Sonia Echeverria and Rosa Portillo enjoy eating a healthy school lunch.



Junior Chris Worrel plays cards with an intense poker face.

Juniors Marcia Longo, Jesse Burgess and Tom Brown stop for a second to talk before going to class.

Freshman Ashley Lancaster eats a light lunch of popcorn and lemonade during 5B lunch.



Care Maree Brown sits down while looking attentively at her daily calendar.

Freshmen friends Chris Marcey, Meghan Dougherty and Cassandra Pagano walk down the main hall arm and arm.

COLONIAL WILLIAMSBURG

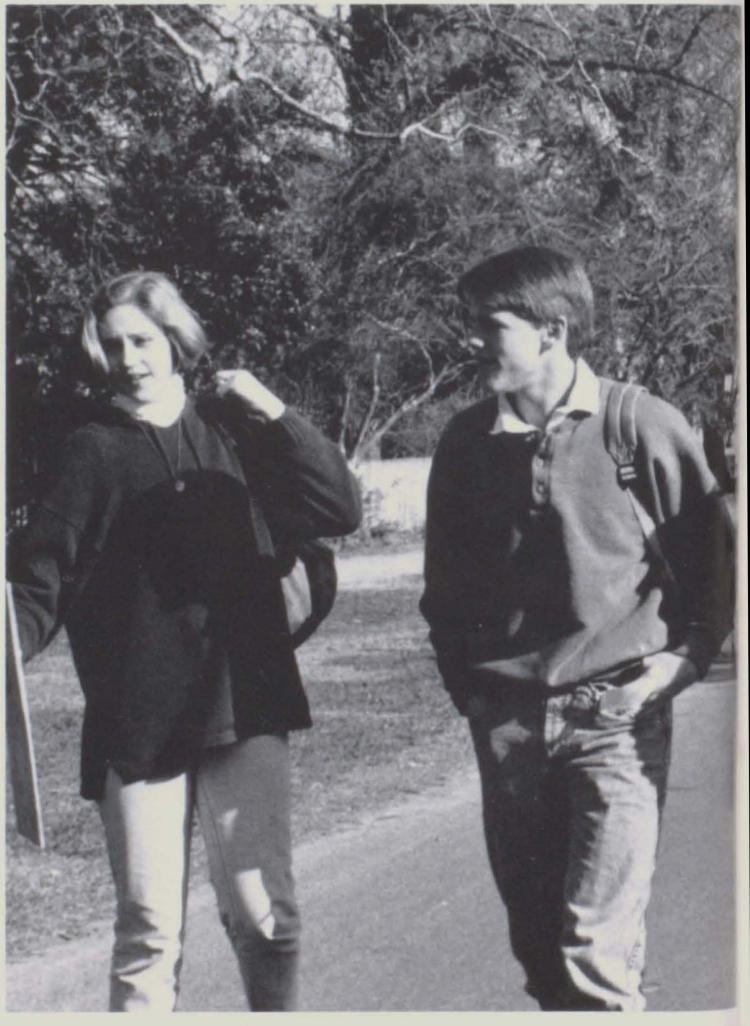
A Full Day Of Learning

On a brisk and windy day, students in Social Studies and Anthropology classes arrived in Williamsburg. This annual field trip has been a part of History classes for four years.

For most students the field trip was not only a learning experience but was also a chance to have a good time.

Richard Hartogs and David Hartogs along with friends Marco Mercer, Maurice Morillon and Dan Dunhem wait for the bus to return.

A bunch of Juniors cram into the back of the bus to get a prime seat for the trip back to Falls Church.



Chrissy Rosholt and Chris Worrel walk leisurely along the main street in Williamsburg.

Janna Lukomski and Tamara Droujinsky relax on the bus ride before an exciting day at Williamsburg.

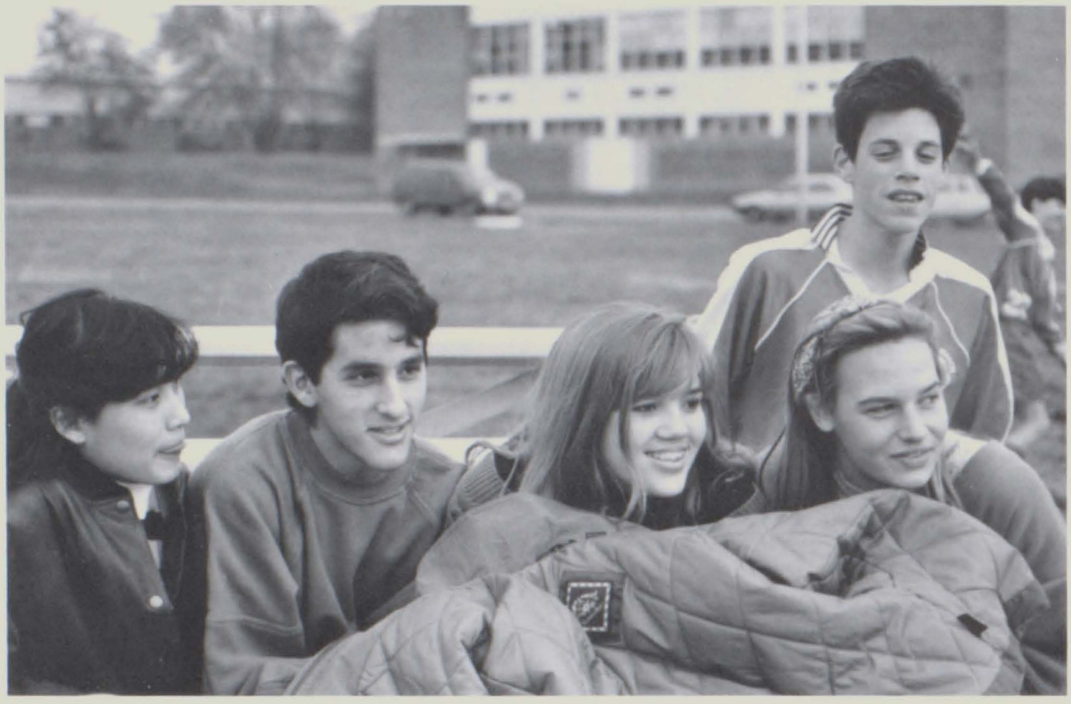
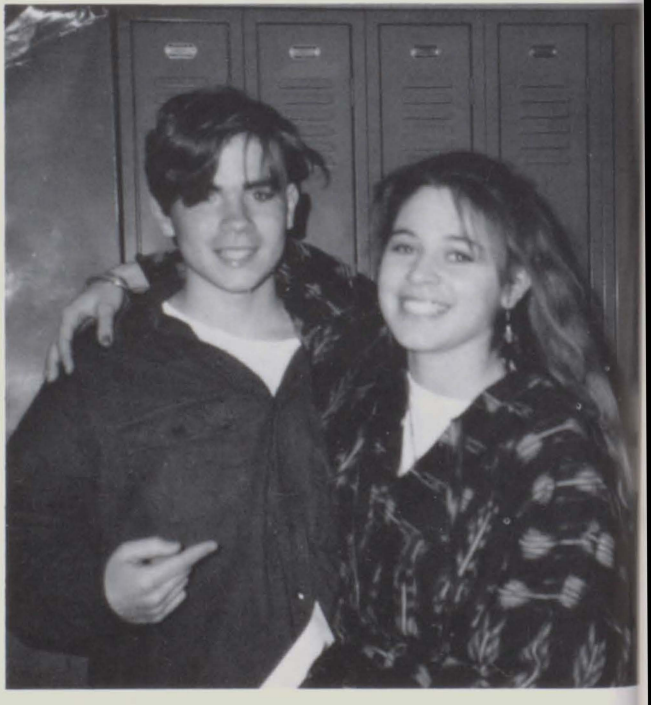
REMEMBER THE TIMES



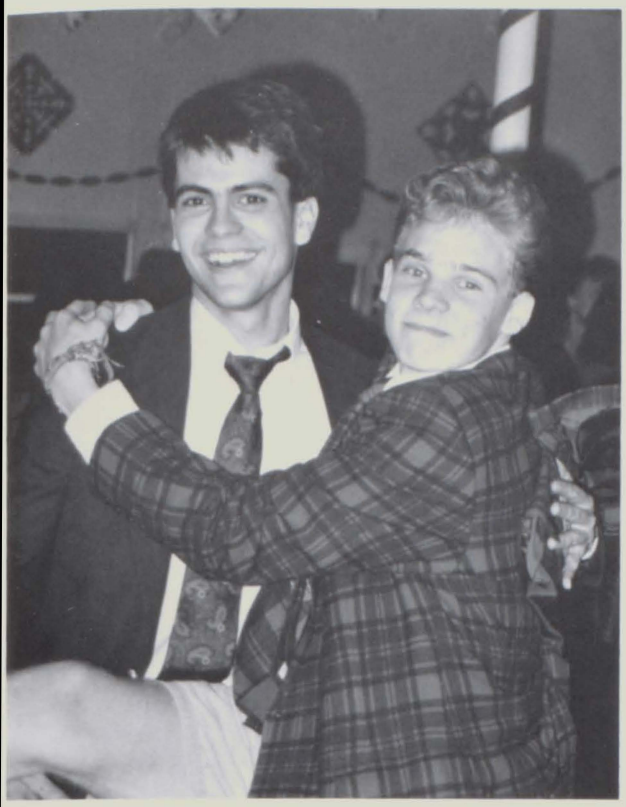
Cynthia Tran, Reid Hecker, Melinda Yeary, Sarah Barber, and David Hartogs watch a J.V. soccer game.

Stephanie Jones and Ms. Doherty model thei new fashions.

Mr. Gambill and Mr. Boley use their good looks to fire up the crowd at the Homecoming Pep Rally.

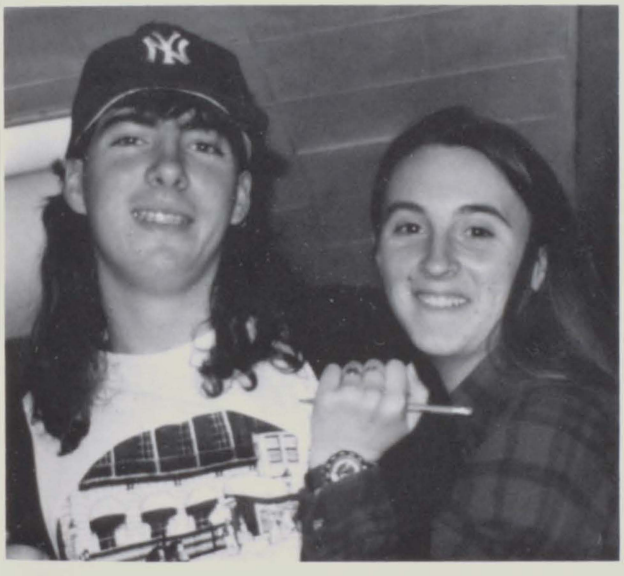


Sophomores Jimmy Longo and Ann Mickelson show off thei pearly whites.



Seniors Jason Robertson and John Yates share a dance at the winter Semi-Formal.

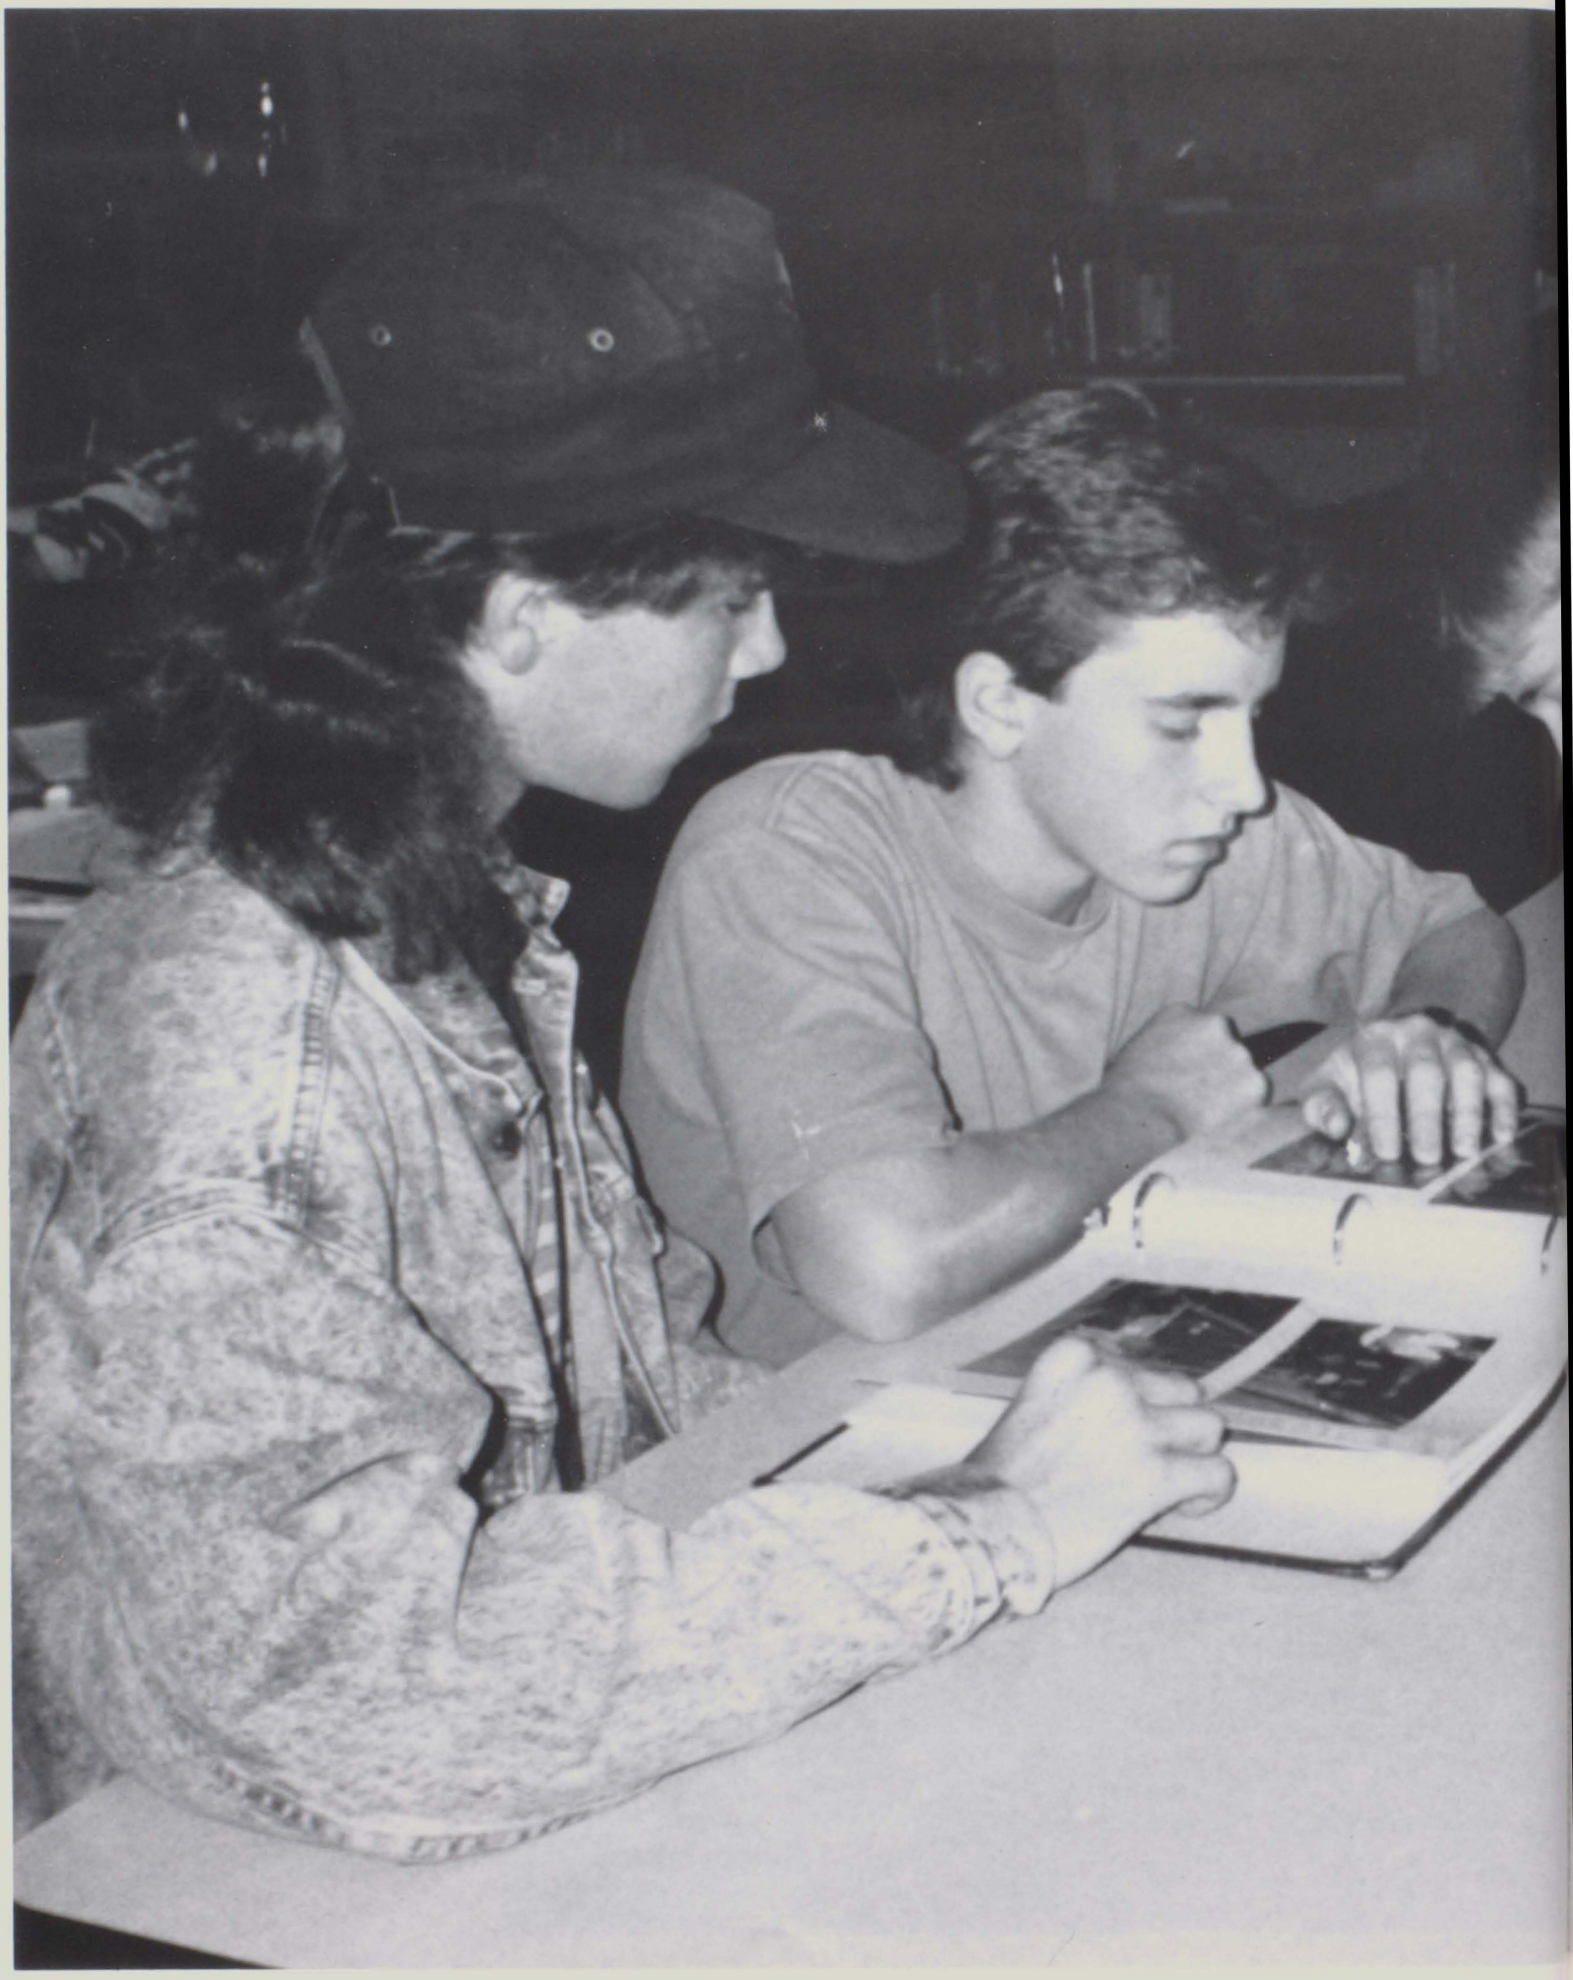
Trevor Krainik , Scott MacEvoy, and Chris Dietz try to keep warm on a windy day in Williamsburg.



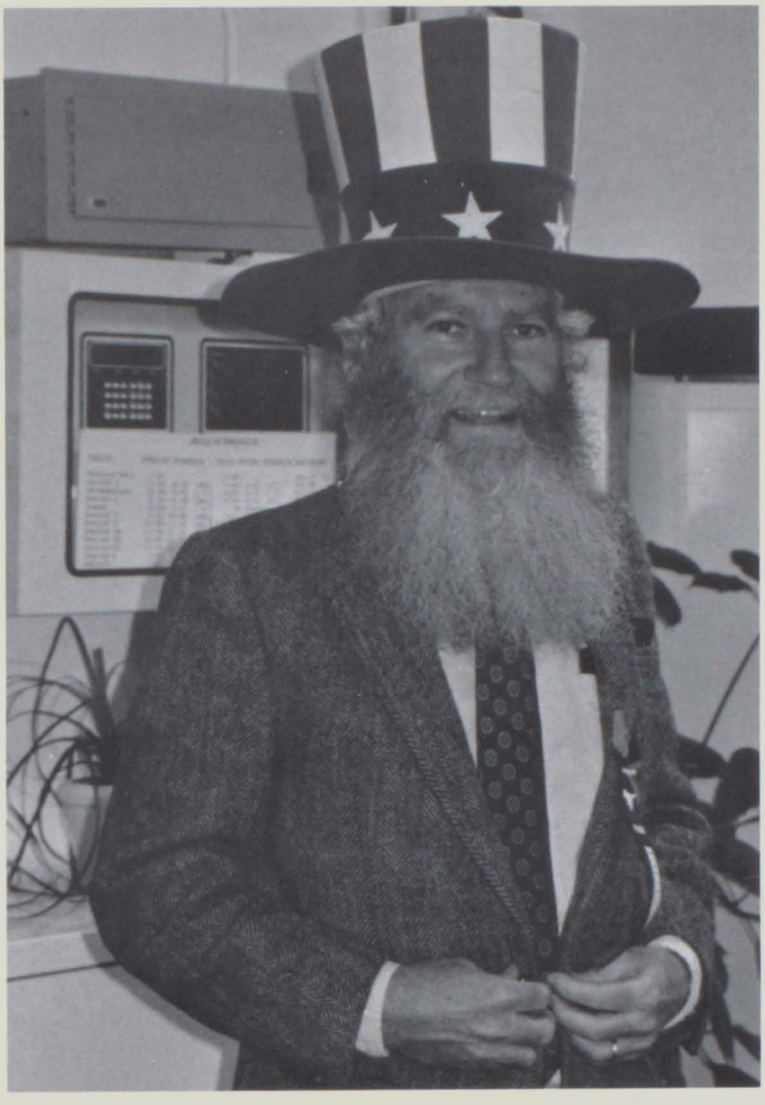
Mike Wells and Janna Lukomski take a break to fool around.

Junior friends Mark Gannon and Madeline Tolkan take a break during a night of avid dancing.

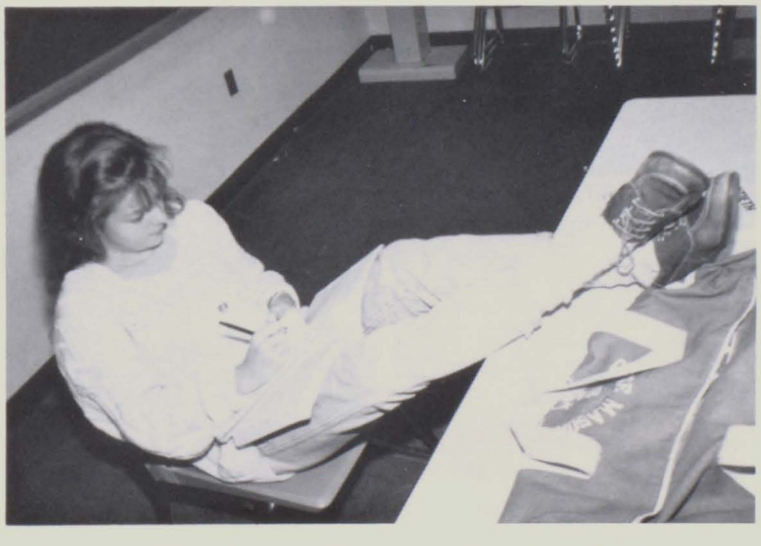
We can understand Chris Thomas being incarcerated but Mr. Boley, really, aren't you supposed to be the enforcer?



ACADEMICS



Principal Dr. Thoms participates in spirit week by wearing a symbolic hat representing the United States.



Senior Laura Bain makes use of her open study and completes her homework.

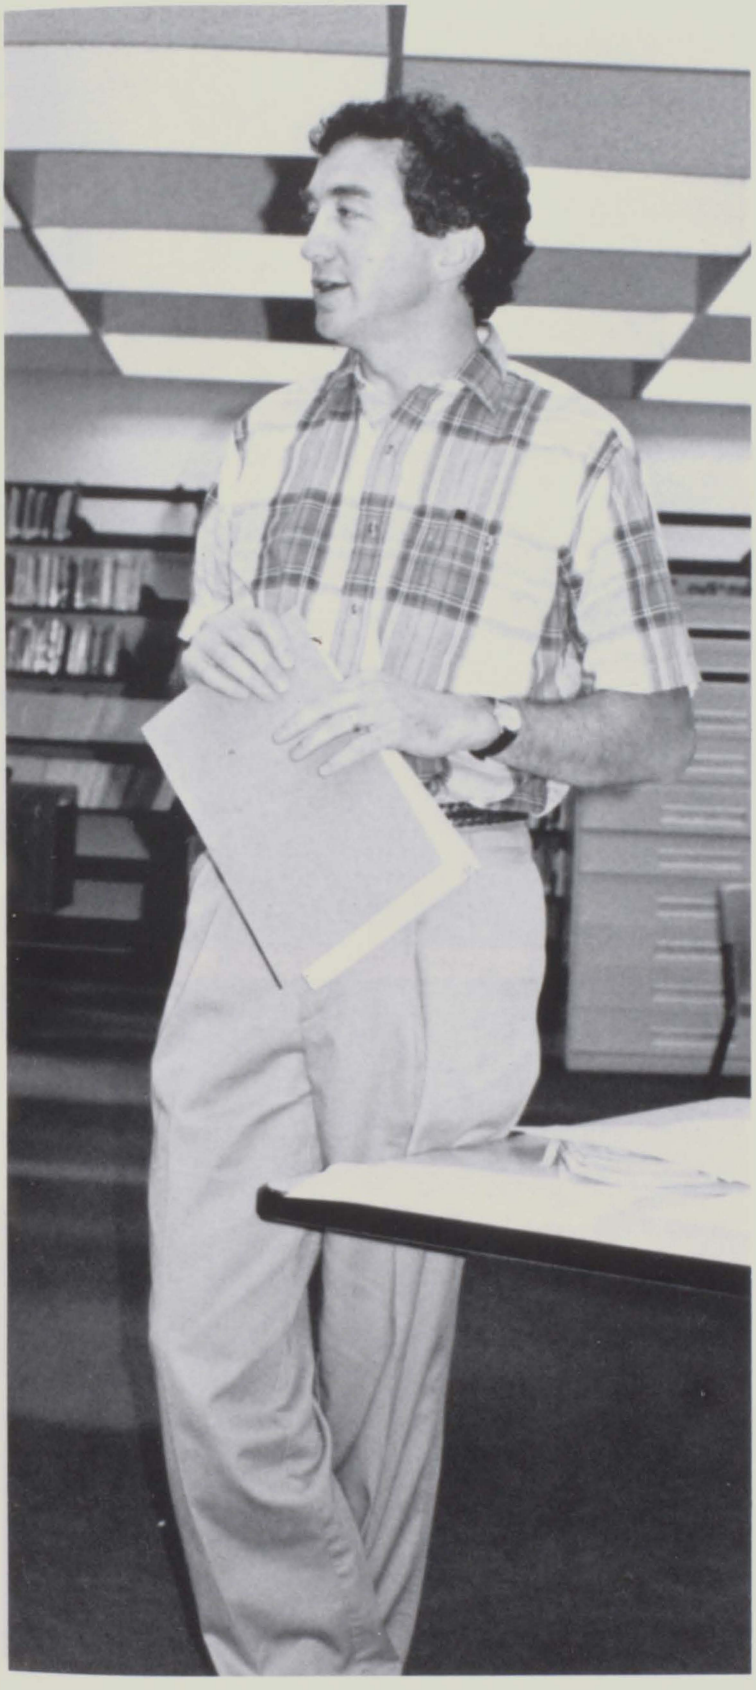
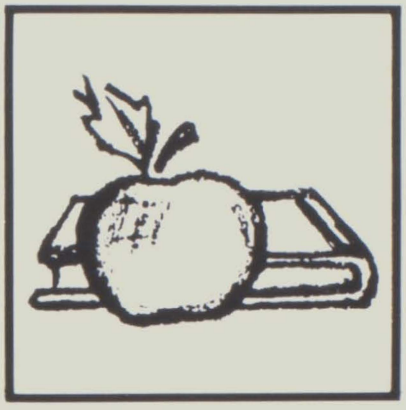
Right: Mrs. Helen Eitt, finance officer, continues to type on the computer.

HARD WORKERS

The Administration Behind The Scenes





Where would we be without these truly fine and dedicated people? The administration effectively takes care of all the daily "behind the scenes" work. They are the ones who make everyone and everything fit together to create our uniquely small, but enthusiastic school.

Above: Mrs. Speir prints another round of copies.

FINE ARTS

Expresses Feelings

With an addition of the Media Arts class, George Mason has increased the students ability to express their feelings. Freshman chorus student Anne Benigsen said, "Chorus is a wonderful way of expressing beauty and emotions with integrity and feelings." Sophomore Chris Parrish said, " Art is a cool way to express yourself."

Juniors Jennifer Finnegan and Monica Gera work together on an English assignment in Mrs. Meighan's room.

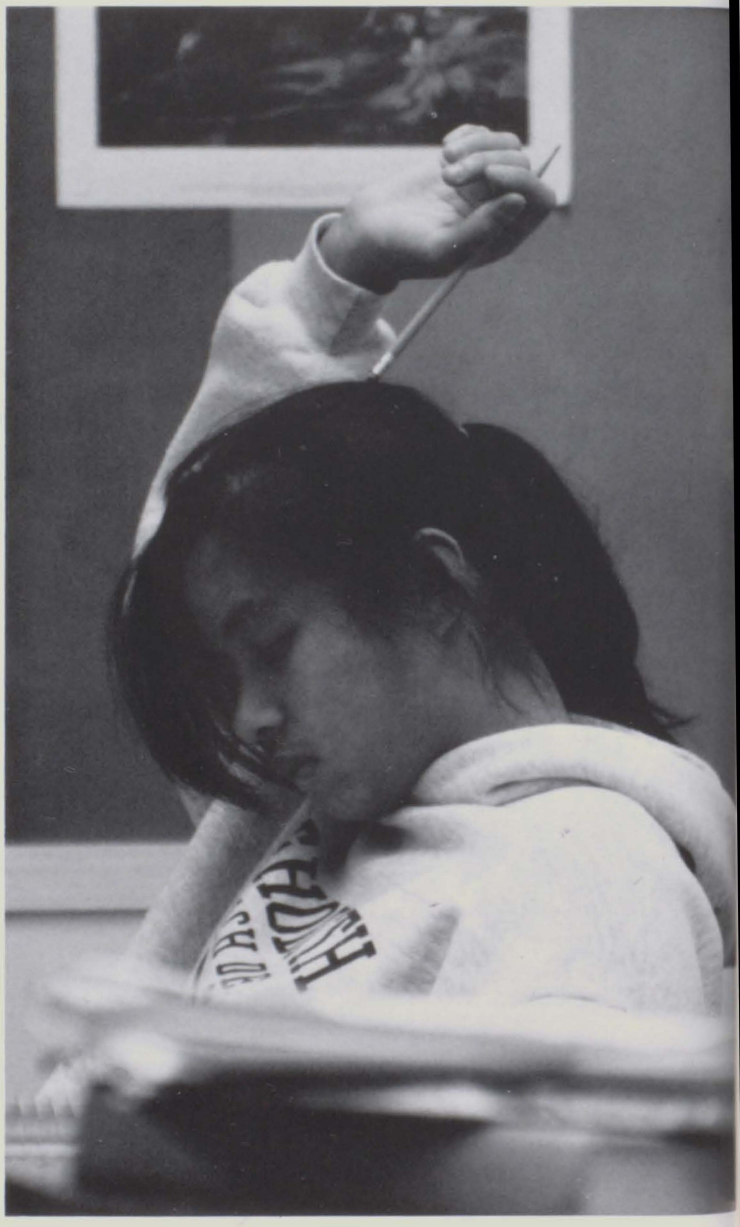
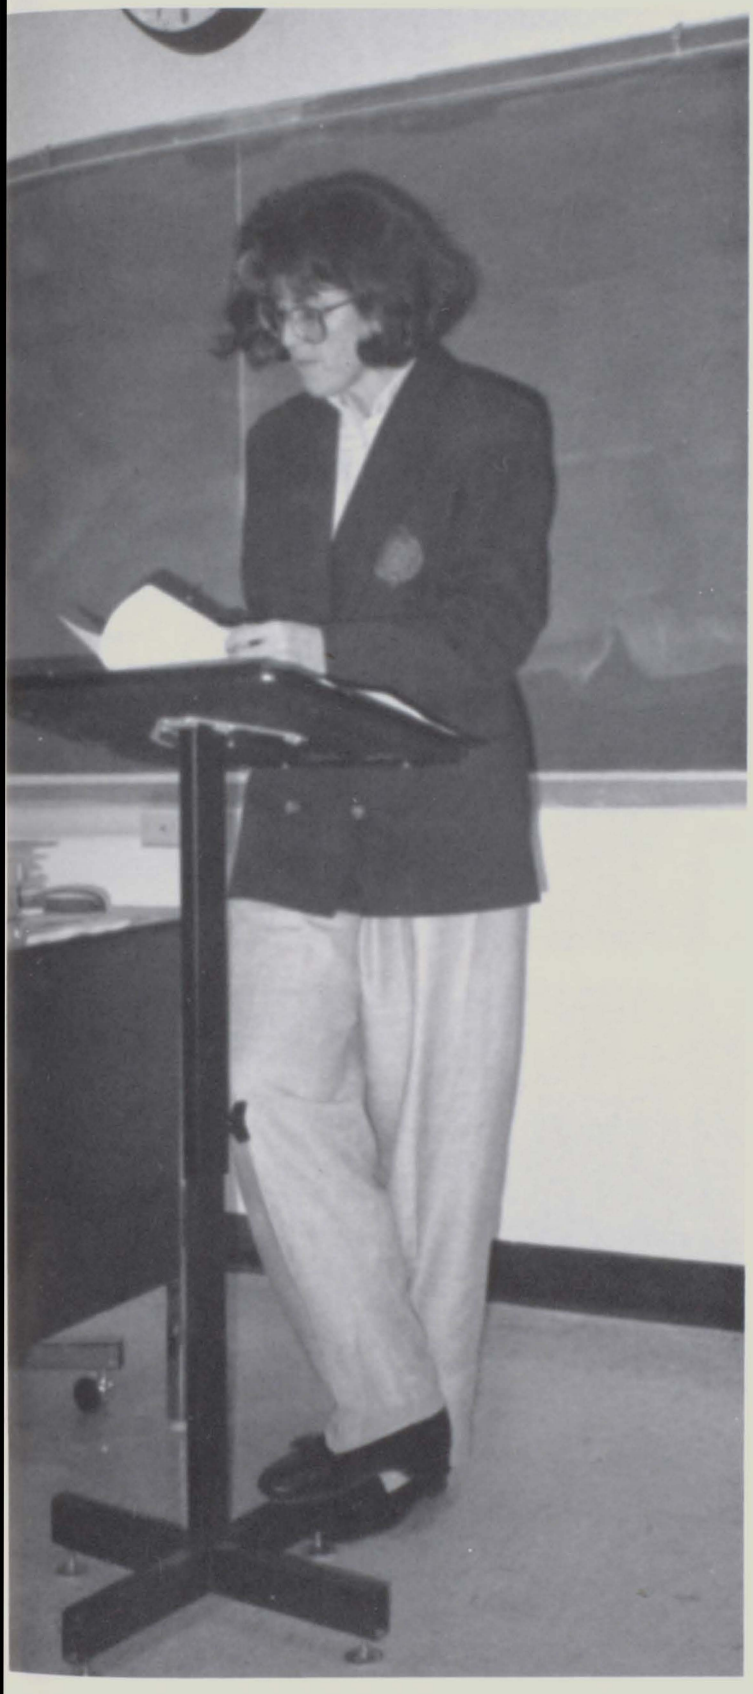
Juniors Mesert Magesh, Tsion Michaels and Malini Manickavasagam study together in Mrs. Meighan's English class.

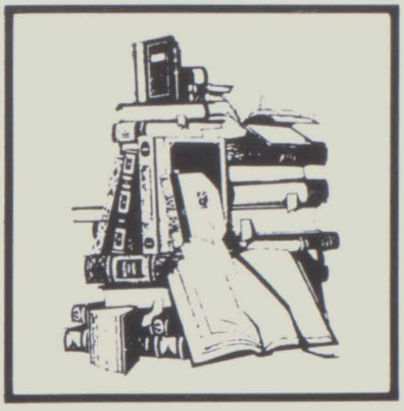


Freshman Cathy Bautista raises her hand to ask a question in Ms. Tucker's English class.

ENGLISH: A SUBJECT OF HISTORY

Experience In Literature





Few students see English class as a subject of history. Ben Vicellio, a sophomore said, "The pioneers of our country brought along with them the concepts of the English language." While Freshman Cassandra Pagano said, "In English class through reading, you can experience a new world."

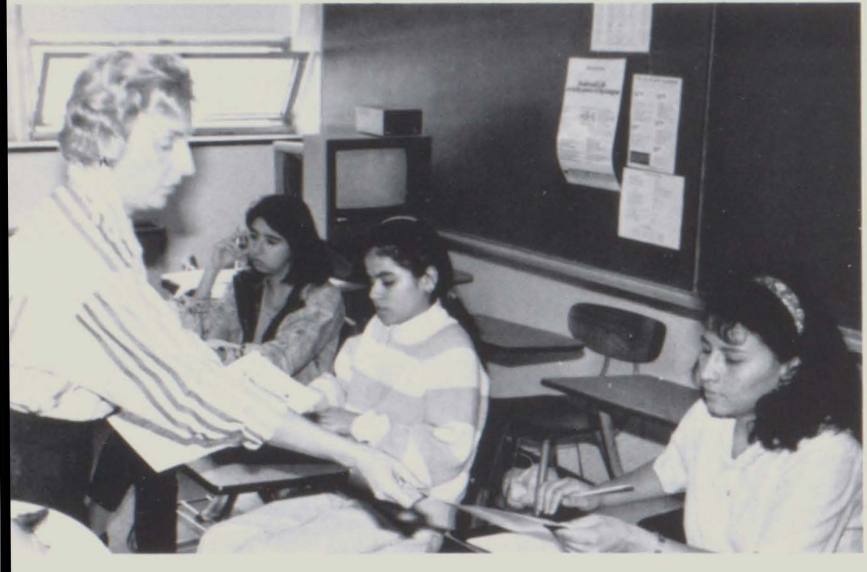
Mrs. Rissetto hands out worksheets to her ESL students.



ESL:

Bridge To American Language

George Mason has an ESL program with more than 100 students of 11 different cultures. ESL is a class that unites people from different countries to further our knowledge beyond our own heritage.

Above: ESL students Luis Barasona, David Diaz and Maricela Cardenas review the work they are given.

Santos Aguilar finishes up his work for ESL.

Quoc Ong gets help from Mrs. Rissetto.

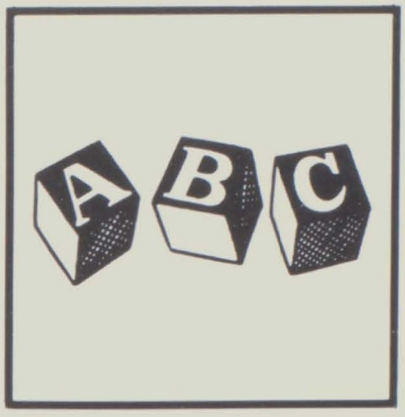
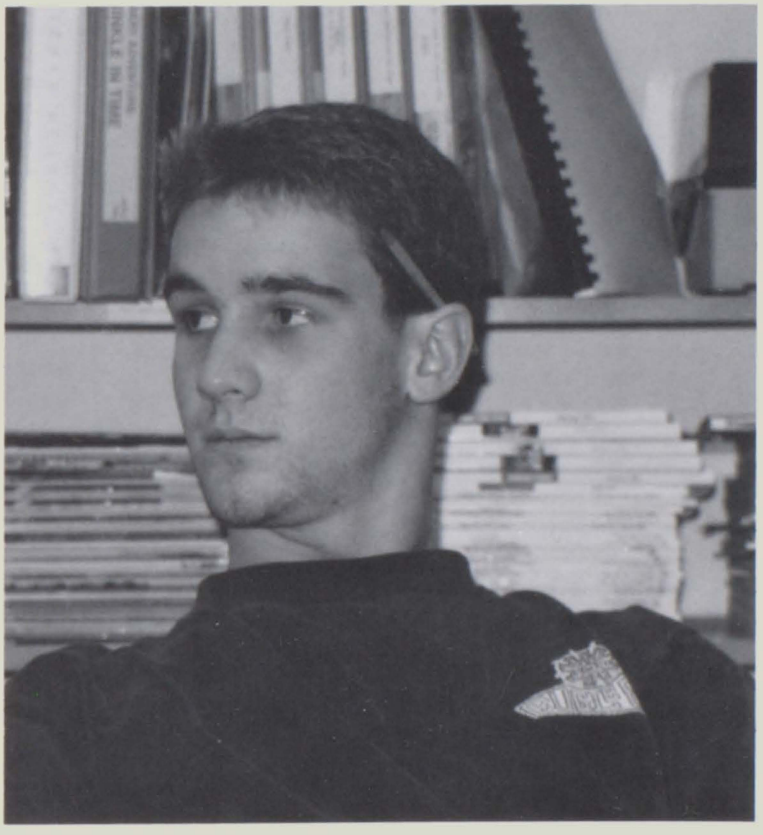
Right: Ms. Doherty means business when teaching her Spanish I class.

LEARNING OTHER CULTURES

It's Not Just A Class



"Language gives you the chance to be part of another culture," said Chris Thomas, a French II student. With experienced teachers and eager students, language classes add excitement to a regular day.

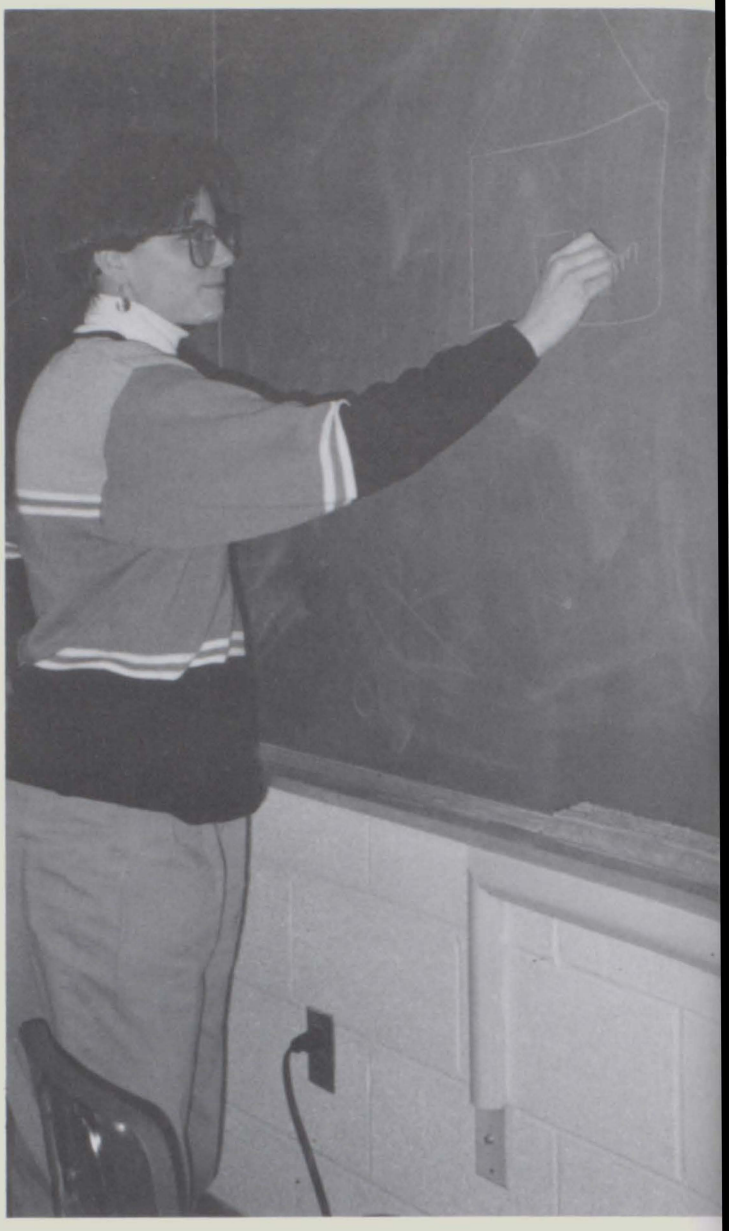


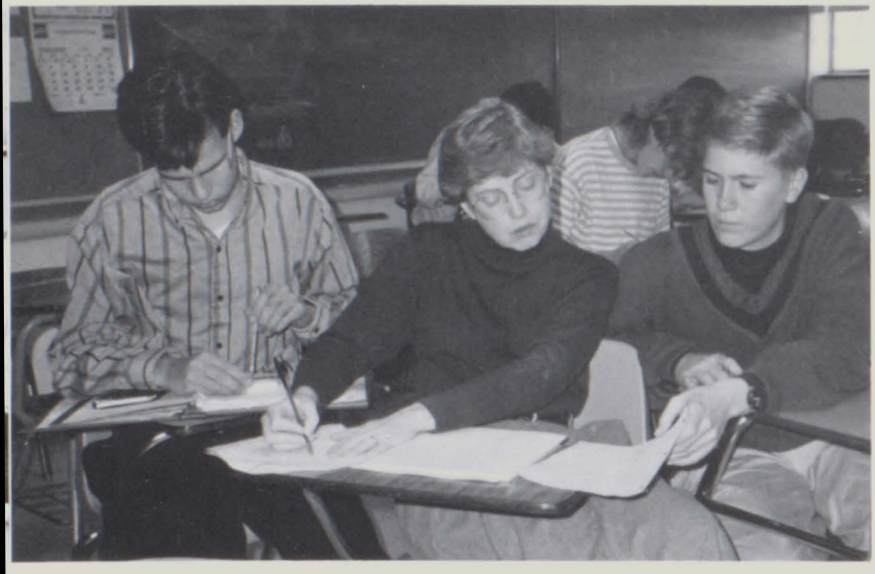
Above: Mrs. Dominique Anderson looks up after reviewing a quiz. Mrs. Anderson received the prestigious Pontari Grant from the Greater Washington Association of Teachers of Foreign Languages.

Junior Paul Bailey, relaxes in Latin class taught by electronic classroom.

Freshman Tuan Nguyen concentrates on using a compass during Math class.

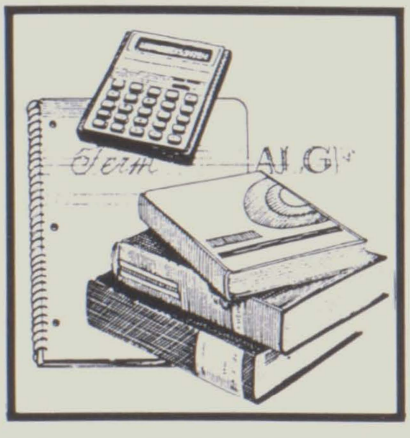
Ms. Ciciarelli gives aid to Sophomore Brian McLaughlin and Freshman Andrew Blount after school on an Algebra lesson.





MATHEMATICS

A Challenging Subject



Freshman Eugene Simopoulos said,"Math, it's challenging material, and challenging material is always fun." George Mason's Math Department is rigorous and challenging due to the highly advanced classes. However, with skilled teachers, Math can be transformed into something practical and fun.

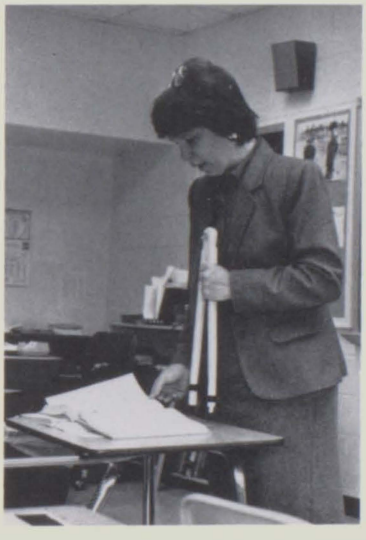
Freshmen Edward Arrazola and David Larochelle work together on a Geometry lesson.



Sophomore Diana Dinerman and Junior Robin Boldt take notes in Ms. Knoke's Geometry class.

Ms. Weber reviews a complicated problem to her Geometry students.

Students await the sound of Mr. Gambill's whistle while he watches gym activities during his 9th grade gym class.

Freshman Michael Murchie puts the pressure on his teammates in gym.

Sophomore Calvin Wills practices "quick hands" while Jenny Parra and Erika Martinez do a "strenuous" workout.

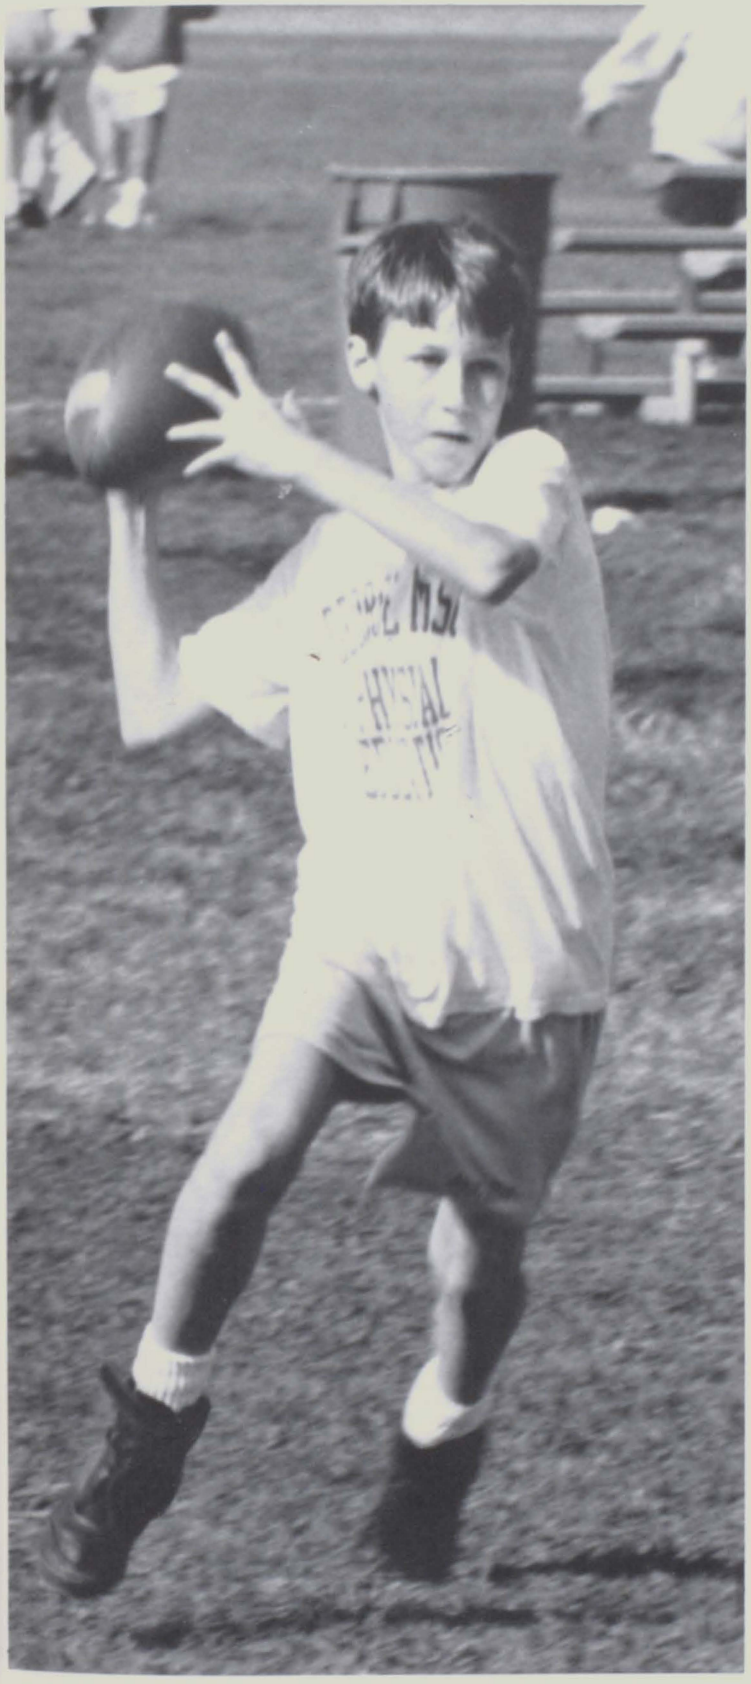
PHYSICAL EDUCATION

A Stress Relieving Class



"Physical Education gives me a chance to play and get rid of stress," said Junior Gavin Hecker. George Mason's physical education department is one of the best, according to many students at Mason. It serves as a break from our normal academic classes and gives us a chance to relieve some pressure.

Sophomore Andy Zheng practices his punting skills during a football unit in gym.

Freshman Wilson Rickerson prepares to execute a beautiful spiral, we're sure.

Science teacher, Mrs. Hartwigger, helps Freshman Pam Smith with lab results.

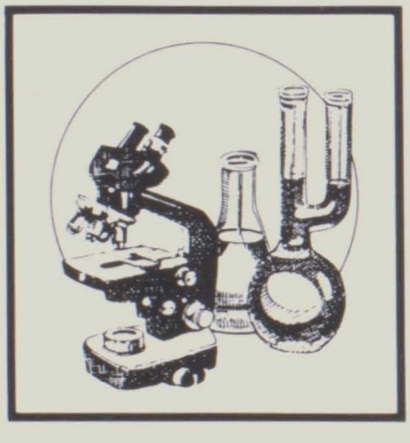
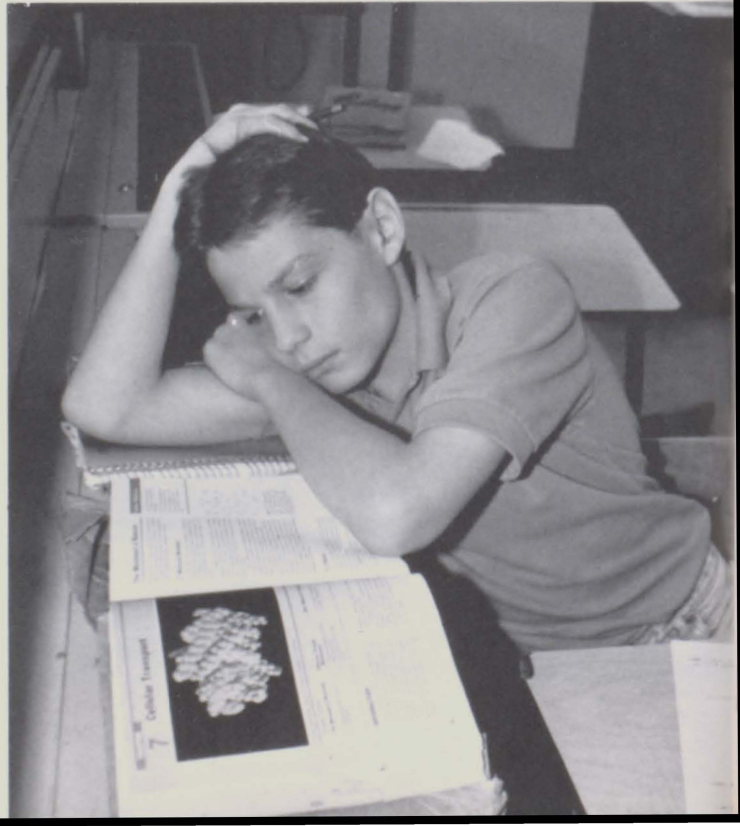
SCIENCE

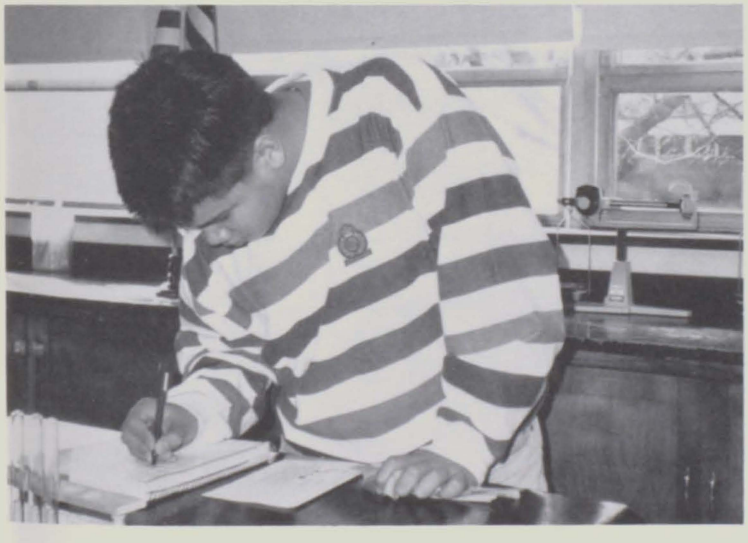
Experimenting In Life



Science keeps students aware of new technologies that affect the environment. Labs give them hands-on experience and an opportunity to explore the unknown. The challenges faced in the classrooms help students cope with future problems in the real world.



On opposite page: Mr. Fredenburg explains a Chemistry lab to Ahmad Sharifazad, a student teacher.



On opposite page: Freshman Eugene Simopoulos studies for a Biology quiz by the warmth of a heater.

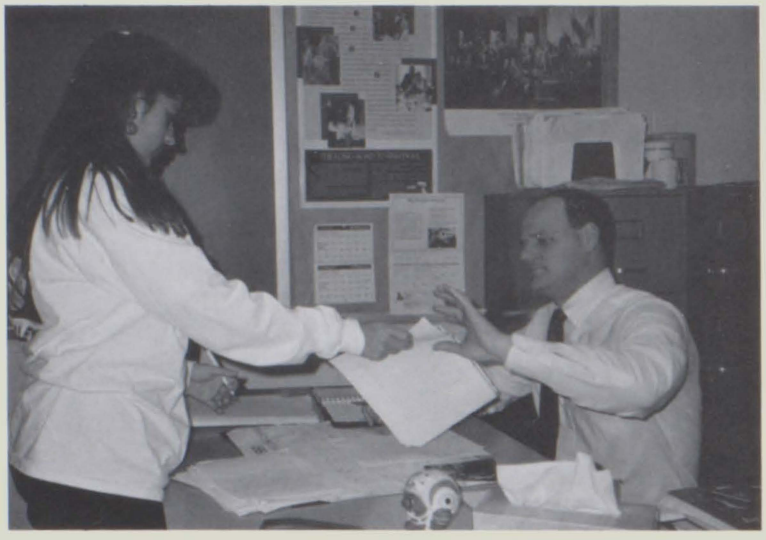
Sophomore Denar Antelo studies bacteria with a microscope in Mr. Krueger's Biology class.

"This is an A, right?" -- Senior Perla Montero submits her test paper to Mr. Sorrentino.



"Don't look at me! I didn't take the paper! -- Scarlet Wynns "Where is it? -- Mr. Peloquin Racing against time -- Senior Josh Kingsley works on his Government test.

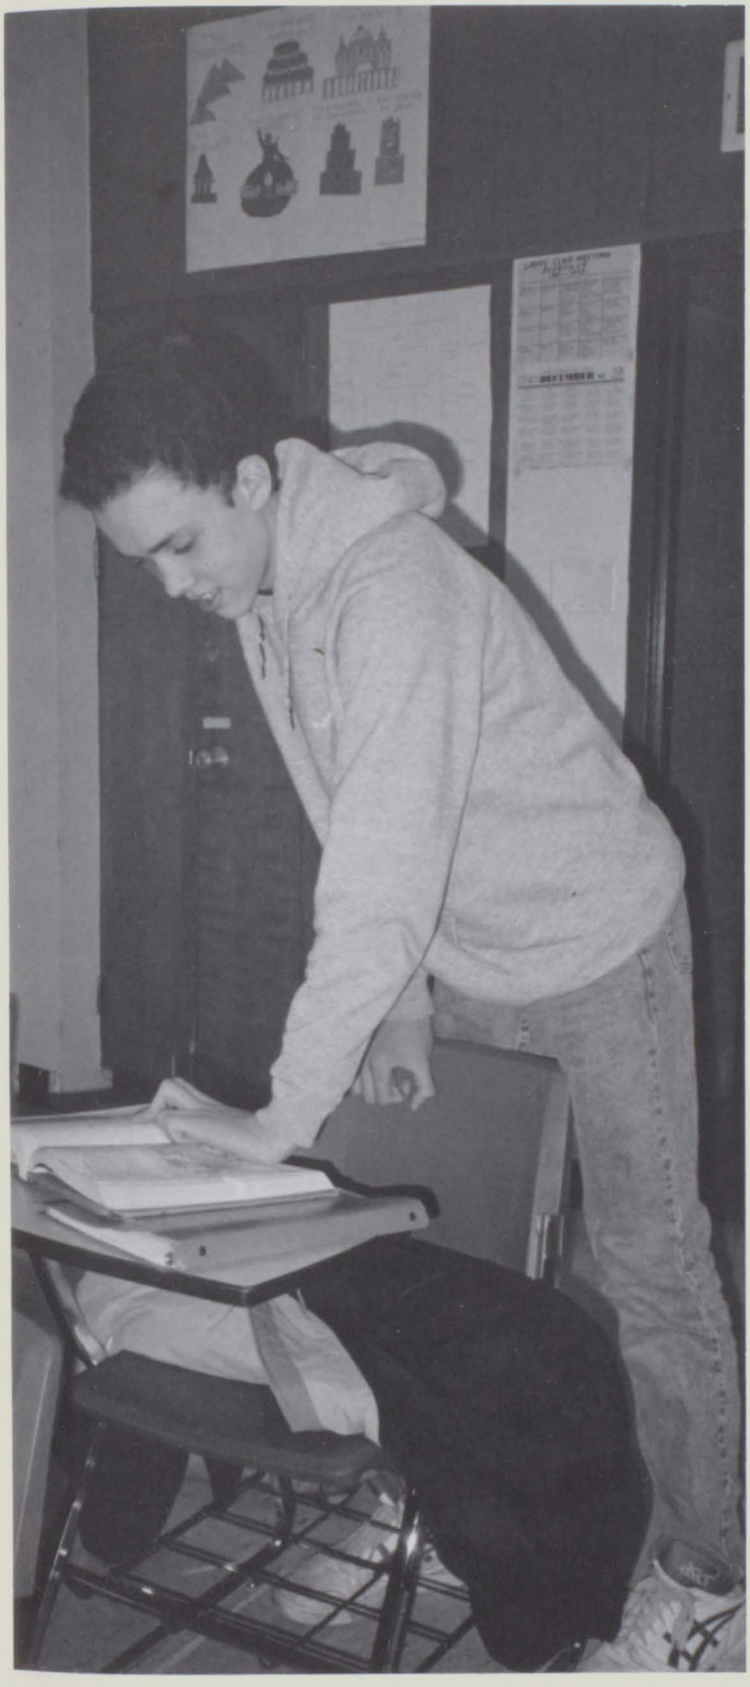
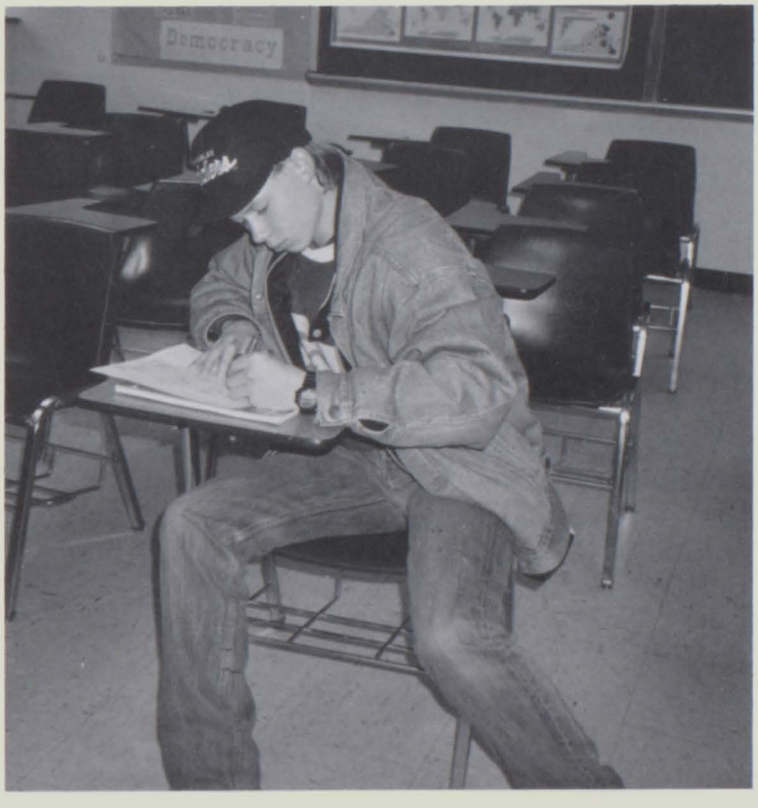
Freshmen Jesse Weber and Duane Lomis give their oral report on the Hundred Years War during Mr. Peloquin's Social Studies class.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Old Past, New Beginning



Sitting through a social studies class may seem dull, but as history unfolds, it reveals a new foundation of a new beginning. Being aware of the past gives us insight to our future decisions. Social Studies is not just a class, it's a way of life.



Mike Dettmer completes a make-up test in Government class.

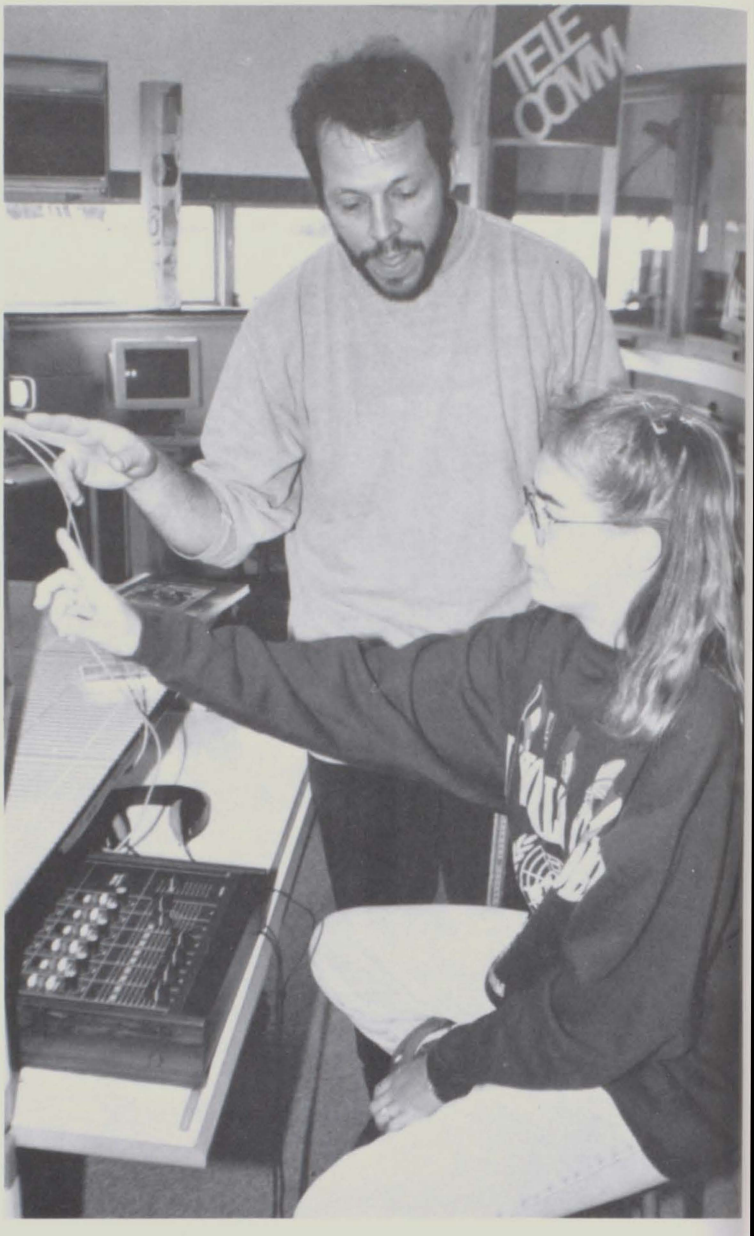
Junior Eric Ignacio and Sophomore Brian Mercer concentrate on their Accounting lesson.

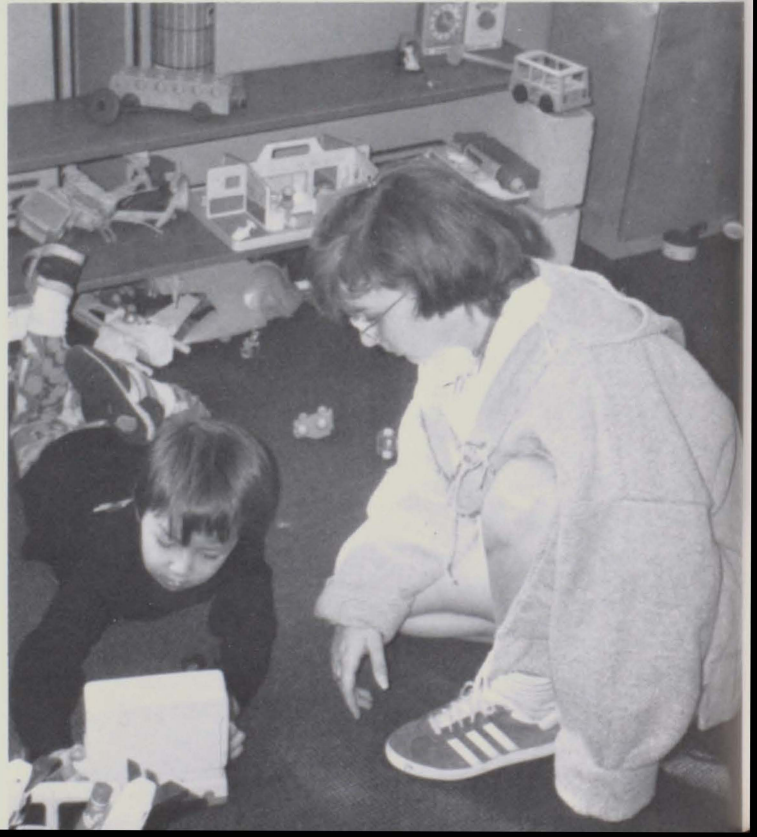
Seniors Marte Gronlie and Joe Gross get help from Ms. Morris in Computer Science.



VOCATIONS

A Learning Experience

Vocational classes at George Mason prepare students for the future. They give students a valuable learning experience different from other major academic classes.



Opposite page: Mr. Ballou shows Junior Margaret Bryant the wirings of an amplifer in Media Arts class.

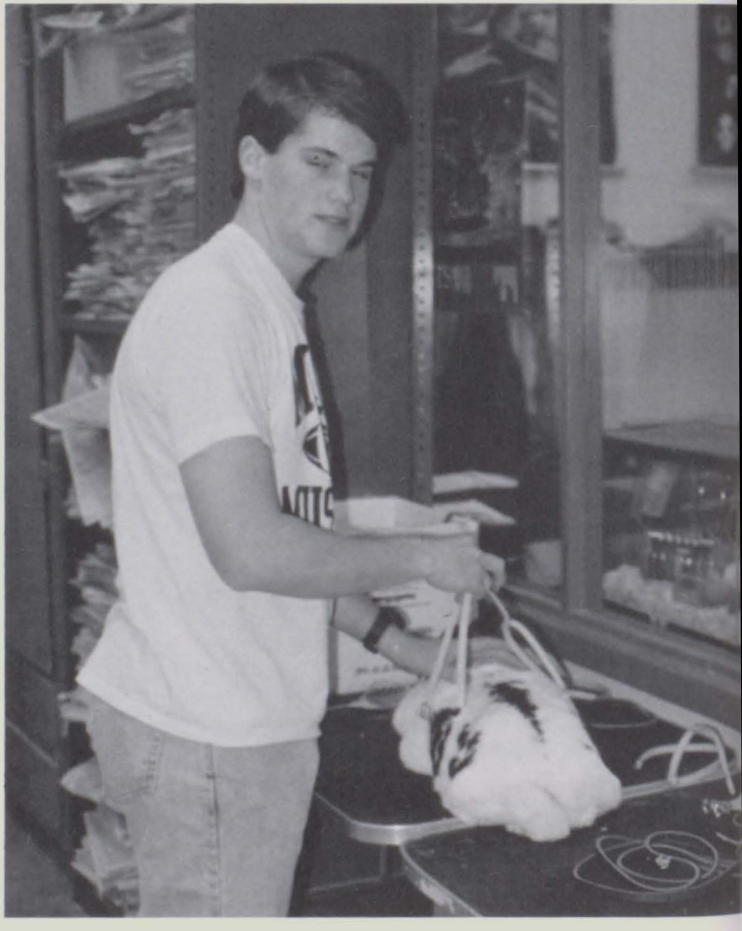
Mr. Sheedy assists Senior Darren Lomis in using the printing press.

Joe Wilson gets ready for keyboarding class with Ms. Schaefer.

Junior Josh Davis and Sophomore Sora Fellmen record a poem in Media Arts class.

ROTC Air Force participant Junior Chris Blocker poses next to the Arlington flag to show his patriotism.

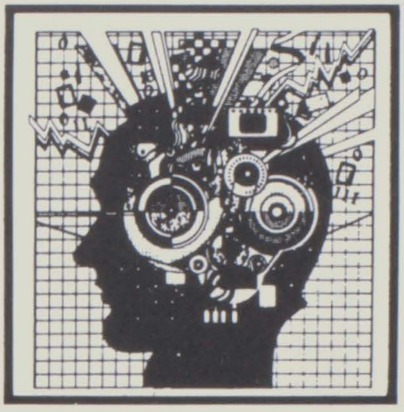
Junior Liz Sikkar waits for ROTC class to begin.



Junior Kellen Tasker puts a collar onto a rabbit in Medical Animal Biology at ACC.

ARLINGTON CAREER CENTER

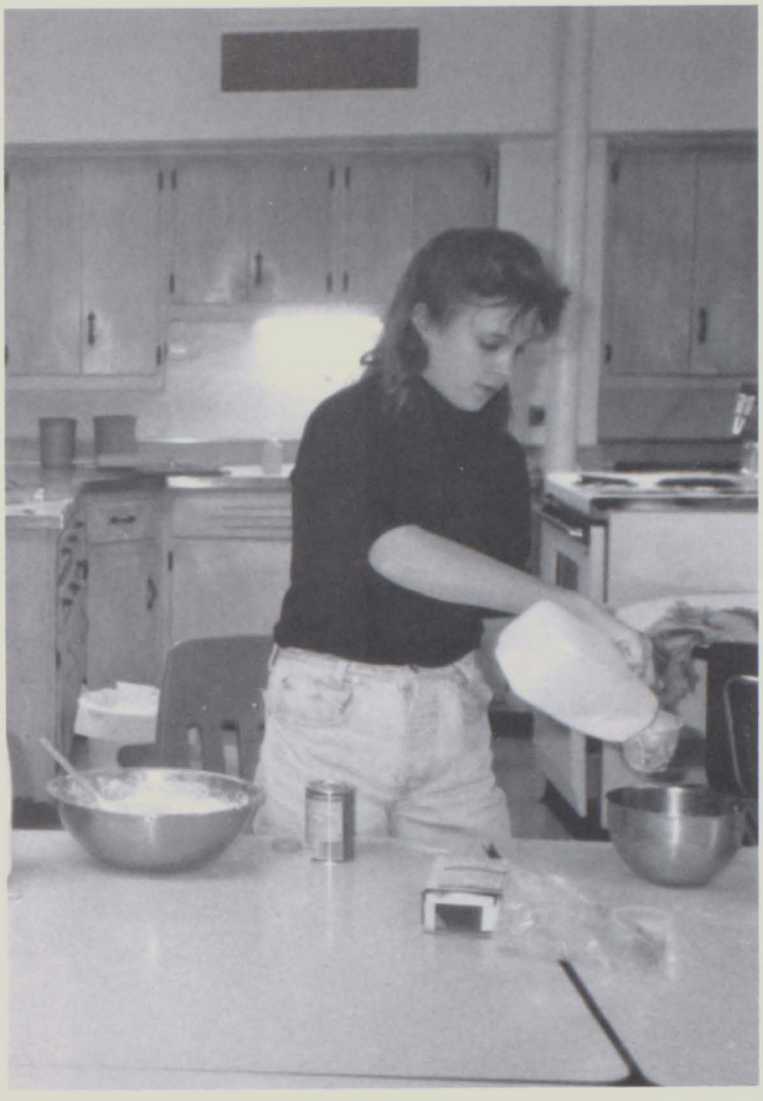
The Future of Tomorrow



George Mason participates in the Arlington Career Center program in order to offer students a wider selection of classes. These programs introduce unique learning experiences in many different fields of interest, which can be helpful for future careers.

Above: Senior Julie Perez takes Medical Animal Biology at ACC and is seen here holding a Quaker Parrot.

Left: Senior Karla Goyonaga takes to the runway and models clothing at Ballston Mall where she takes Classroom On The Mall.



Sophomore Amie Camden helps bake bread for the newly formed Homeless Committee.

ORGANIZATIONS

Senior Josh Kingsley lights his candle during the NHS induction ceremony.

A Helping Hand

Service to the community seemed to be the topic of the year for students throughout the school. Organizations such as the Service Club and the newly formed Homeless Committee, worked steadily throughout the year to give something back to the community. For some, service was a necessity in order to get the IB Diploma. Yet for others, it was an enjoyable task. Whatever the reasons for community service, students at G.M. were always willing to lend a helping hand.

Magical Music

For many students in the high school, 3rd period comes as a welcome relief. After nearly two hours of classes, students are ready for a break from normal academics.

During third period the High School Chorus and Band meet. It is in these two classes along with the after school group, the Madrigals, that much of the talent at GM has been found.

Whether you want to pursue music later in life or not, these classes give everyone a chance to learn more about music.

The Tempo, Lasso, and Yearbook are different from any other club in this school. These organizations require a lot of self-discipline, responsibility, overall hard work and long hours. The Tempo is the high school literary magazine. Students submit poems, short stories, and artwork that are published at the end of the school year.

The Lasso is the high school newspaper that publishes important issues of today's world from a students point of view. This newspaper circulates information throughout the school. Both the Tempo and the Lasso are printed in the Print Shop by the students. The students are fully responsible for the yearbook. The layouts, pictures, captions, and the stories are written and chosen by the students. Students have become more involved this year to produce one of the best yearbooks ever.

Both the Lasso, the Tempo, and the Yearbook participated in VHSL Annual Journalism Conference. The Lasso won first place and Tempo received second place.

These three clubs are an important part of the school. They show that the students and the teachers can work together. But most of all that the students can work together. This shows that we are dedicated and responsible and care about our school and each other. Without the Lasso, the Tempo, and the Yearbook this school would not be what it is today.

THE FUTURE

Growing Experiences

With a smaller class than in previous years, the FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America) still proved to be a great opportunity to learn about real business applications. The FBLA was involved in many school projects, such as tabulating the results for the Homecoming King and Queen, and organizing raffles for the student body. Whenever there was a need for business skills, the FBLA was always there ready to provide the necessary people and services.

The Ecology club was yet another of G.M.'s clubs which provided students with an opportunity to prepare for the future. The club focused much of its time on saving the environment and providing information about how to make our world a better place to live. The Ecology club was of great service to George Mason and the Falls Church community.

Overall both the Future Business Leaders of America and the Ecology Club offered students the challenges to improve not only their personal abilities, but also to aid the Falls Church community in any way possible.

DIFFERENCES

Breaking Through

With so many different ethnic groups being represented in the student body, it is not surprising that there are two organizations that focus their attentions on our differences. The Cultural Exchange Club had two exchange students; Francisco Macedo from Brazil and Perla Montero from Mexico. Besides sponsoring two exchange students, the Cultural Exchange Club also went on a trip to upstate New York to meet with other Cultural Exchange Club members.

The International Club successfully completed its first year as a G.M. Club. With most of its members being ESL students, the International Club created an environment in which students of all backgrounds were able to feel a part of school. Among its achievements, the International Club sponsored Red Ribbon week. Red Ribbon week required club members to spend countless hours cutting up ribbons and sending them to TA's in order to support anti-substance abuse. The International Club also sponsored a booth at the Homecoming Fair, which sold baked goods from the members native countries. Overall, new and old clubs alike were able to bring us together as a sound student body.

KNOWLEDGE

A Tool for Life

Each year the National Honor Society conducts an introduction ceremony recognizing new members. In order to become a member, students must posses the qualities of service, leadership, scholarship and character. According to sponsor Ms. O'Connel, "The purpose of NHS is not only to encourage, but to reward students that show these qualities."

Model U.N. is yet another example of a club that takes ambition and knowledge. Throughout the year students participated in several mock U.N. conferences. Participating in a conference requires students to take the positions of varied students on various issues.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Seniors & Juniors

With no serious obligations to meet this year, the Senior class was able to concentrate on giving something back to the community. In order to get privileges to go off campus known as Senior Honors, the Seniors were required to perform a certain number of service hours. Besides the long hours spent on the proposal by Senior Class Council members, much thought was also devoted to the traditional class gift, which was to be presented to the school during graduation ceremonies.

On the other hand, the Junior class officers had many responsibilites to meet. The largest of which was Prom, which was held in May. Sponsoring the prom involved long hours and many fundraising activities. Of these activities the most profitable was the Junior Variety Show where the class made nearly $2,000. Another unique fundraising event was an antique show that was held in April. Their hard work and the work of their fellow classmates, resulted in a succesful and productive year.

GOVERNMENT

Sophomores & Freshmen

Since the end of the previous school year, the Sophomore leadership team had been working on developing goals for the year to come. Among these goals were a lock-in and a fundraising project. With lots of motivation and determination the leadership team and their classmates achieved these goals, and made nearly $2,500 for the responsibilites that they will have to face as Juniors.

The Freshmen class officers devoted much of their time and effort to getting aquainted with the ways of the high school. As usual the Freshmen and Sophomores sponsored a joint dance for the entire high school. Overall the Freshmen class was just beginning to prepare themselves for their H.S. years to come.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

Plays & Plays

The fall play was the production of "Dracula." This kind of production was new to the George Mason Drama scene. The script was an original by a friend of Mr. Cronin. With new modern characters, all those involved worked hard hours to pull off a great success. In addition, the audience did more than simply act as spectators. They came dressed in Halloween attire from Cindarella costumes to Frankenstein faces. It helped set the atmosphere for this remarkable production.

Along with the new school year came a new found interest as well. The Chess Club was started by Richard Peloquin because of student interest. The club met every Friday after school and people paired up according to their strengths and weaknesses. This was determined by a chess ladder. The Chess Club was a way for students to have fun and be stimulated intellectually as well.

SETTING A STANDARD

The football team got off to a super start. Many of the players worked out in the weight room during the summer. There was a large turnout of new players this year as well. The Mustangs started off with a winning streak defeating such teams as Central, Sidwell Friends, Stonewall Jackson and Manassas Park. "We had the same record as last year, but we needed a win in our last three games to go to the playoffs, but we didn't get that win we needed," said head Coach Lou Sorrentino.

The Mustangs should really be a dominant team next year with the majority of the team being seniors, which will give them a good shot at the district title. The team will be one step ahead of every other team. For one being, the other schools are losing most of their starters, and we keep getting more and more people out to play Mason football.

GOOD MOVEMENTS

The Girls Basketball team had a great spirited season under head coach, Lori McConnell, whom all the girls enjoyed working with. This year the team response was positive, with great enthusiasm, and hard work.

The team responsded with 13-6 overall record. It was lead by Erin Stobo, Megan Noyes, and Jessica Menendez. The high scorer Vicki Spevechek won the "Most Outstanding" trophy. The team made it as far as states, but unfortunately they lost. However most of the team members think they had a good season, and that it was better than last year's season.

The great attitude and enthusiasm that the team showed, reflected the high scores they had and they also made a "positive difference" for the team followers.

WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS

The Boys Varsity Soccer season ended this year with the best record in George Mason history. The team ended its season with a 13-2 record losing only to O'Connel and Episcopal. One of the reasons for the team's tremendous success was the superb physical shape that the players were in. Conditioning started early in August, with practice twice a day. The Coach, Arturo Jimenez, worked hard with the boys and gave them no breaks. It was tough but it obviously paid off.

The team was led offensively by Luis Ventura, who had 18 goals during the year and Jose Hernandez who had 16 goals. The defense was led by Fernando Jordan and Adam Jarrett who worked together to give the team five shut outs. Fifty-one goals were scored overall, and only 15 goals were given up.

Undefeated in their league, the team also went on to win the league tournament. This is the first time in George Mason history that the soccer team has won both, a truly remarkable accomplishment. The tournament consisted of two games; the first against Potomac and the Championship game against Pallotti. The team beat Potomac 2-0 with goals by Jonathan Dietz and Luis Ventura. The Pallotti game was won 5-1, a stunning victory with two goals each by Jon Stangel and Jose Hernandez and one goal by Luis Ventura.

One of the other highlights of the year was the 1-0 victory over Eastern Mennonite. This anually scheduled game is always one of the best of the season. George Mason has lost to Eastern Mennonite every year for the past 10 years. The team went out determined to win and did just that. This game set the tempo for the rest of the year and gave the team the courage and confidence they needed to finish as well as they did.

KICKIN'

Teamwork is the term which best described the Girls Varsity Soccer season. Each player was as skilled as the next. Senior Stephanie Jones stated, "We played as a team not as individuals." This accounted for their rise to success.

Through rough practices, the girls became an all around outstanding team. Junior Katherine Temple added, "We really pulled together. It was like one big happy family." From throwing Mr. Kalepp's birthday cake in each others' face to running the daily mile, the girls agreed that there was more to soccer than just sweat and pain. The constant repetition of drills was enough to agitate anyone, yet as their skills improved, their frustrations subsided. It was evident that the hard work paid off and along with it came a greater sense of unity among the girls, which is often comprehensive only to those who play. "I've met some of my best friends through soccer," said Sophomore Liv Nordin. "When two people strive for the same goal, they strive together rather than against each other. At least that's the way it's done here at Mason."

Captains Christine Walsh and Stephanie Jones led the Girls Varsity Soccer Team to an excelling record of 9 wins 3 losses and 2 ties. Their secret to a strong team was an attacking offense supported by an unstoppable defense. For complete strength, it was necessary to have an enduring goalie, such as Senior Suzanne Eggleton. The average number of goals scored against the Lady Mustangs was less than one per game. To display their enthusiasm throughout the season, the team used their motto, "Look Good, Feel Good!"

ONE STEP AHEAD

Being part of the Cross Country team can be a great experience. Working together and not giving up are important for team unity. The team was led by Chris Madison, a senior and winner of the "Most Outstanding" award.

At regionals, Chris Madison placed 17th for the boys and Marisabel Suarez placed 27th for the girls. The coaches award was received by David Douglass, a junior, who's impeccable performance accelerated the team's overall standing.

Team coach, Beth Ann Hull, believes the team showed potential from the beginning and looks forward to next year as well. David Douglass said, "We had a strong team this year, and had a solid season." Sophomore Chris Yates added, "The team had strong performances from all the team members. It was a season of growth and building and I am looking forward to a strong team next year."

CHEERLEADING

Cheerleading has certainly made an impact at George Mason over the years. Senior Varsity Boys Basketball player Peter Murchie said, "The cheerleaders overwhelming spirit elevates our play to new and exciting levels!" The cheerleaders seem to create an overall attitude of school spirit, especially during Homecoming!

Captain Katie Gray added, "Homecoming is the best part of the year for us, we get to show our spirit and involve the rest of the school as well." The cheerleaders have strenuous practices in which they prepare for pep rallies and games. In the summer they go to camp at Towson State University in Maryland. "Camp is hard and stressfull but we learn a lot and its worth the work in the end," said Varsity cheerleader Susie Hill. At camp they learn new dances, stunts and cheers to motivate spirit for the school year. Varsity football player Jeff Anderson said, "I love their support." The cheerleaders are a major part of the school. They excite the students and encourage their fellow athletes.

BOYS VARSITY BASKETBALL

The Boys Varsity Basketball team found it difficult to keep a coach. First there was the change from their previous coach, Mayor Dale Dover, to Coach John Kalepp. However, Kalepp fell sick and was unable to continue with his coaching duty. Two weeks into practice, the fate of the Mustangs fell to Lori McConnell, who had just finished a season with the Varsity Girls Basketball Team, and was planning on coaching the J.V. Boys Team. Her new position made McConnell the 2nd woman to coach a Boys Varsity Team in Virginia.

It was quite an adjustment on both parts. Many of the guys, who were used to the physical type of play that Dover taught, had to make a quick adjustment to Coach McConnell's fundemental type of game. "It will be evident whether the team can conform to Coach McConnell's basketball in our win-loss record," said Senior Brian Sullivan in his column of the Lasso.

The team will be hurting next year when they lose 11 Seniors out of 14 players. This includes 4 out of 5 starting players as well as the three leading scorers. The team started out strong and the Mighty Mustangs soon found themselves on a winning streak.

Not only were they winners, but they were entertainers as well. The gym would be packed every home game in anticipation for a great show. Everyone was hoping to see Peter Murchie and Chris Madison sink 3-pointers, or Eric Fellman fly through the air. Maybe a fast break, to lay in a lob pass, or even a slam from Josh McCall. These Mustangs knew how to create an exciting game.

Despite the coaching turmoil, they rose above the rest and proved themselves to be winners. They gave it their all and it was always 110%.

THE BONZAI BUNCH

With only 2 returning players from both the J.V. and Varsity Volleyball teams, Head Coach Al Krueger felt that "This allows us an opportunity to do things differently."

Both teams consisted primarily of young players and although they struggled in many matches, they learned vital skills for next year. Since volleyball requires very strong teamwork from all team members, players were chosen based on their commitment and their potential to work well together.

Not having a lot of height was not a real factor according to Varsity Coach Knoke who said, "We showed that it dosen't take tall girls who can spike." Considering that the Varsity team's average height was only about 5'5", they did exceedingly well spiking the ball.

The main focus of the teams practices was on developing a good defense. As Coach Krueger put it, "Any one can jump and spike, it's those who can defend against those moves that win the game".

Although the team worked to make it to the playoffs, because of their inexperience they were not able to do so. But both teams look very promising for the years to come. And with their great athletic ability, both teams should be as Coach Knoke put it, "Be a force to be reckoned with the future."

WRESTLING

The Varsity Wrestling squad worked very hard this year and went through numerous lengthy practices. Push-ups and sit-ups were done by the hundreds every day. If you were one of the many people who stayed after school, you could also see the wrestlers running through the halls and up and down the stairs in the Middle School. Practices were very hard but gave the wrestlers strength and endurance, much needed virtues in a wrestling match.

Due to the small size of the wrestling squad and the many first year wrestlers that came out, the squad did not do very well as a team. They did though win some very impressive matches and placed well in every tournament they entered.

The highlight of the team was the individualism. The team had many superb veteran wrestlers such as Lance Guckenberger, Aaron Smith, Jose Hernandez, Gavin Hecker, and John Schutte, another great wrestler that was out most of the season due to a serious neck injury. These key wrestlers had many exciting matches and they almost always won. Another bright spot was Francisco Macedo, an exchange student from Brazil. This was Macedo's first year wrestling with high school students. But his previous Greco-Roman wrestling experience made him a force to be reckoned with.

The wrestlers this year worked very hard and the hard work paid off. The team did a wonderful job this season and this hopefully will set the pace for many seasons to come.

J.V. SPORTS

DEDICATED TEAMS

When asked about being a J.V. Girls Soccer player, Amie Camden said, "It was challenging, let's just say there was a lot of blood, sweat and tears." Many other J.V. athletes would agree. The J.V. teams got off to a slow, but sure start. They had a rough season but finished strong over all. Through tough practices, they strained and strove for what they would become in the years ahead. The J.V. teams are primarily for younger, perhaps not as experienced players, but they are the future athletes of George Mason.

J.V. athletes are an important part of the team as a whole. Being on a J.V. team is helpful, especially if you want to pursue the sport... it's a learning experience. "It was interesting to compete with Varsity in scrimages to see how we measured up to them," said J.V. Boys Soccer player Eugene Simopoulos. Girls Varsity Volleyball Coach, Judy Knoke, added, "On J.V. you learn fundamentals and how to play and fine-tune your skills on Varsity. The J.V. players are essential."

SPRING SPORTS '91

A Long Journey

The previous year's spring sports definitely had an uphill climb ahead of them when the year started. Athletes and coaches alike had to prepare for a season of changes and unexpected surprises. Overall, spring sports did well considering the number of obstacles they had to overcome. The track team was mostly made up of new runners, who went through specialized training to prepare themselves for meets.

The baseball team, lead by Head Coach Lou Sorrentino, made it to the playoffs for the first time since 1965. Assistant Coach Dave Boley said, "We had a great season considering the amount of first year players on the team." The girls softball team had a disappointing season but Junior Chrissy Rosholt said,"The team really started to pull together at the end of the season, it was a good effort."

Continuing the tradition, the Boys Tennis Team won the Virginia State Championship Title for the sixth year in a row. This broke the Virginia State Record for consecutive titles in any sport. Along with the team title, Chris Madison and Pat Thomas for the second year, upheld the State Doubles Championship for the second year in a row.

Even more surprising was the Girls Tennis Team's performance. They maintained a positive attitude for the game and for each other. With their never ending energy, they made their way to Regionals. It was another addition to the success of our 1991 Spring Sports.

PEOPLE

Sophomores Sean Polzer and Oscar Fuentes put together the pieces of a class art project.

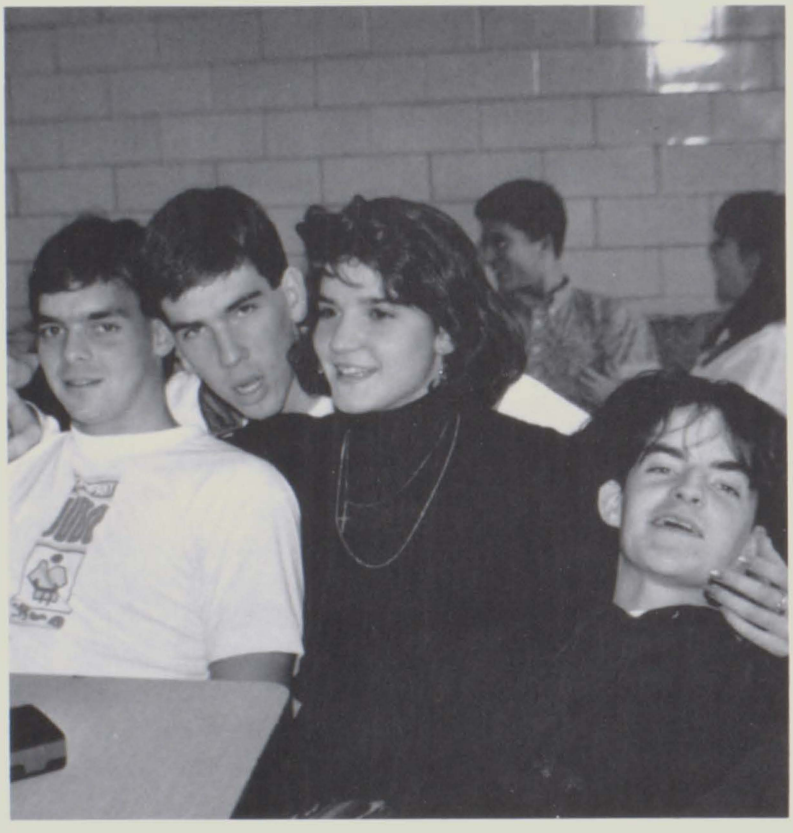
After four long years of waiting we had finally made it to the top, we were the Seniors. Although some of us had been friends since kindergarten, and others had only known each other for a short amount of time. It didn't matter to us we all felt like one big happy family.

We were all such good close friends and we knew that saying "goodbye" on graduation would be tough. But for many of us it was only "see ya later". Although we were saddened by leaving our friends we were also excited by what the future held for us. Some of us were going onto college while others were pursuing different interests. But we all felt prepared for the years ahead of us.

Through the years we had been a part of winning teams and successful clubs. We had participated in a wide variety of sports and activities, and we knew that we had left our mark on George Mason forever. With the assistance of great teachers and administrators we had proved that we were just as smart and willing to learn as we were athletically inclined. This was proven through our seven National Merit Scholar Semifinalists.

In the end we knew that as the Class of 1992 we would always remember our days here at George Mason, and realize just how lucky we were to attend such a great high school. Not only did we have an influence of G.M., but G.M. had a tremendous influence of us.

Adam Jarrett is taken by surprise while drinking his morning juice at Camp Horizon.



Francisco Macedo, Chris Madison, Stephanie Jones, and John Blackwell enjoy a leisurely lunch in the senior lounge.

Stacy Russ and Katie Gray show their spirit by dressing up for pajama day during Homecoming Week.

Congratulations, Afolabi

Whatever you can do,
or dream you can,
begin it.
Boldness has genius,
power and magic in it!
- Goethe

Best Wishes to you and the Class of '92....

The Ojumu Family

To Adam with Love from Mom & Dad

That I be not a restless ghost
Who haunts your footsteps as they pass
Beyond the point where you have left
Me standing in the newsprung grass,

You must be free to take a path
Whose end I feel no need to know,
No irking fever to be sure
You went where I would have you go.

Those who would fence the future in
Between two walls of well-laid stones
But lay a ghost walk for themselves,
A dreary walk for dusty bones.

So you can go without regret
Away from this familiar land,
Leaving your kiss upon my hair
And all the future in your hands.

Margaret Mead

A QUALITY YEAR AND A QUALITY BOOK

Dear Yearbook Staff

It was an exciting year for all of us. I know you put your "all" into this book. I especially want to thank the following students for all their hard work and everlasting energy!

Margaret Bryant - flying in with pizza in hand and ready to go to work;
Amie Camden - who was usually at the computer typing away;
Chris Dietz - always organized and on top of the sports issues;
Diana Dinerman - adding her touches to copy;
Josh Jarrett - with pictures in hand and busily writing copy.
Vanna Lam - looking for that "just perfect" picture;

A very special thanks to our Editor - Liv Nordin, who without fail was always on top of everything, she made the yearbook happen! Liv will sorely be missed, but I wish her much success in England.

Also a big thanks to our Senior - Stacy Dewalt, who was always picking up loose ends and putting in finishing touches. I wish Stacy the very best in all her future endeavors. Come back and see us.

With Fondest Memories

Dear Mrs. Schaefer,

You have done so much for us this year! Thank you, thank you, thank you! We all really appreciate your hard work, time, and money. Thank you for spending your Saturdays with us as we strove to finish a deadline.

You were always there pushing us to finish and to do our best. You always did the things no one else wanted to do, i.e. typing. You pushed us to make the decisions, always reminding us that this was our yearbook. You eased our frustrations, and you helped us all get along. You did so much for us, and you deserve the best! Thank you for pushing us, this yearbook is the best!

Love,

The 1992 Yearbook Staff

HORSIN' AROUND,

'92 Highlights

The year came to an end with a "Mustang Kick"! The year was full of new and exciting challenges. Some events such as Homecoming and Spirit Week kept the students' school spirit going strong. When stress came around the corner along with mid-terms, friendly smiles picked up our spirits.

A visit from Costa Rican students gave us a chance to meet new faces from interesting places. A great Prom enhanced the anticipation of the conclusion of the year the only style possible: Mustang Style!

MUSTANG STYLE!

"Let me out!!" !@?#

Mustangs,

It's been a great year! We have all accomplished something, and made this school year terrific. From sports to academics, together we have made a positive difference.

As we go through the years ahead, we will look back on 1992 as a year full of accomplishments, changes, and friendships. Through the tears and smiles, we made it all the way: Mustang Style!
